Mussolini on the Phone
We Have a Mystery Ray

More agitation in the League of Nations, another telephone message, this one from Mussolini in Rome, telling Laval of France that he would not permit the League to interfere with his "destiny" in Ethiopia.

France and England want him to take Ethiopia gradually, "filtering in." Mussolini declines. His "destiny" calls for prompt action and fireworks.

The American army possesses a "spy" that cannot be caught, convicted or hanged. The new "spy" is a "mystery ray," permitting him who controls it to "penetrate darkness, rain and fog for fifty miles, while the ray is invisible to an enemy."

At night this "mystery ray" would enable a commanding officer to see everything happening within fifty miles from his line of trenches, or his particular spot on the earth's surface, or his ship on the ocean.

You are told that if airplane carriers came within fifty miles of our coast to launch airships against us, the ray would reveal them. It might, but that would help little. Airplane carriers would stay much more than fifty miles out, and a few minutes later the planes they launched would strike.

There is no good substitute for airplanes except more airplanes. Nevertheless, the "mystery ray" is interesting and might be useful.

If you do not accept the teaching of Genesis, that man was made of clay and woman made from one of man's ribs, you may ask Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, president emeritus of the American Museum of Natural History, who was our original ancestor, what did it look like?

You never could guess the animal that Dr. Osborn says started humanity on its way. It was a fish that existed 300,000,000 years ago, that may be found in the old red sandstone of Scotland. That fish had two round eyes on its forehead, a third eye on top of its head.

Some may not know it, but in addition to our two eyes we have also a "pineal gland" in our head, supposed to be a "vestigial" remnant of the third eye of that ancestral prehistoric fish.

Dr. Osborn says it is foolish to talk of monkey and baboon ancestors, "we came from three-eyed fish."

Many "Christians" would rather descend from a three-eyed fish than a two-eyed monkey. They see the monkey, its looks offend them; they'll never see, and could not imagine, the three-eyed fish.

In Berlin Dr. Schacht, minister of economics, president of the great Reichsbank, warns the government that Hitler's fight against the Jews may have serious economic effects on Germany, in plain English, it may RUIN GERMAN BUSINESS.

The Germans are practical people, with the possible exception of Hitler, who is an Austrian, and if anti-Semitism is "bad for business," Germany will lose her enthusiasm for anti-Semitism.

The late Nathan Straus used to say:

"If a German loses one of his relatives, he feels badly. If he loses money, he goes to bed sick."

German trade and industry will "go to bed sick" if it persists in its present attitude toward those that promote business and prosperity in every country where Jews are treated fairly.

The big Russian plane, Chief Pilot Levanevsky, with two co-pilots, expects to start for San Francisco from Moscow, traveling over the North Pole on the way, in two or three days. The trip is carefully planned, seventy Russian planes will be stationed along the Soviet coast line, ready to take off if Levanevsky encounters trouble.

The plane will carry six tons of fuel, enough for 70 flying hours, to cover 6250 miles, and enough food to last three months, in case it is forced down on the Arctic ice.

In that case the unused fuel would create heat. Russia has established forty meteorological stations in the Arctic to supply flying information. This country also is interested up there.

In Salt Lake City, Vernon King, aged 13, youthful phenomenon, discovers an additional Latin conjugation, and can, almost understand the Einstein theory. Professors applaud us in Latin, but school boys will not applaud it. The boy, who is a chemist, spells without hesitation words like "leucyltriglycyltleucyltriglyvylleucyloctaglycylglycine" and "pneumonoultramicroscopicsilicovolcanonisis."

You admire him, but are rather glad that there are not many such boys. Imagine being asked to spell one of those words.

SURTAX WINS AGAIN

Senate Speeds Bill to House

Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., today led an unsuccessful last-ditch fight to kill Governor Curley's bill providing for a 10 per cent surtax on 1934 income, corporation and legacy taxes.

The Senate voted 20-15 against Parkman's motion to reconsider its engrossment vote of yesterday, and the bill was sent to the House for final enactment.

Senator Donald W. Nicholson of Wareham, originally an opponent of the measure, spoke in favor of it. He declared it was not a party measure, but one needed to meet the budget

Senator Langone declared that there was one other way to get the required $3,000,000 estimated to come from the surtax, and more, through an act to tax the chain stores. He offered to vote for reconsideration of the previous vote whereby the Senate passed the surtax bill if Senator Parkman would agree to this form of tax.

Parkman agreed to the proposal and offered to help draft such a bill, but then voted against reconsideration when the vote was taken. It had been pointed out to Langone by other members of the Senate that the chain store tax had been before the Legislature for several years and had not made much headway.

STRIKE RIOTS HURT 3 AT WINCHESTER

A striker, wounded on the head and rendered temporarily insane, ran amuck during a renewal of rioting at the Beggs & Cobb tannery in Winchester today.

Two new outbreaks of violence among the 400 strikers resulted in injuries to three and two arrests.

The most violent outbreak occurred when loyal workers and strike-breakers were entering the tannery.

The man injured on the head by a stone or club went berserk, snarling and screaming and fighting through the mob.

Police and pickers finally captured him and rushed him to Winchester Hospital. His identity was not determined.

In the second riot a factory guard hurled a tear gas bomb after strikers pelted police with stones at noon.

No injuries were reported and no arrests were made at the second clash. Despite the efforts of strikers to stop two automobiles,

Frick Sees Adams Take Over Tribe

In an all day conference, official control of the Braves baseball club was transferred to C. F. Adams in his Milk street office today.

The conference, attended by Ford Frick, president of the National League; Bill McKechnie, Braves manager; Bruce Wetmore and Adams of the Braves, Attorney Bondy for the Stevens concessionary interests, and an unnamed representative of the First National Bank of Boston, began at 9:30 this morning.

To an ante room full of newsmen, who sat the day away, Adams and Frick said that they had no comment to make, other than that control of the club had passed from Judge Fuch's hands.

McKechnie was held in Boston, while his team went on to New York. It is expected that he will be given full power over the club's business affairs until the end of the season.

Judge Fuchs was not at the meeting. He spent the day between his Jamaica Plain home and his Park street office.

SENATE GIVES FINAL O. K. FOR JOBS

The $13,000,000 bond bill, to provide for public works, was enacted today by the Senate and sent to Governor Curley for his signature.

Highway construction, harbor dredging, pier repair and grade crossing elimination are provided for in the bill.

The $4,500,000 bond bill for buildings, substituted by the House for the $7,800,000 measure that met defeat, will not come up for Senate concurrence until Monday.

If the Senate concurs the measure will go back to the House for enactment.

MORE THAN TWO-THIRDS

Enactment of the $13,000,000 bill, a victory for Governor Curley, followed another bitter Senate battle during which Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., failed in his efforts to obtain a suspension of rules for an amendment that presaged indefinite delay.

The enactment vote was 29 to 8, more than the necessary two-thirds majority.

Eight Republicans voted against the bill; they were Cotton, Fish, Goodwin, Holmes, Mackay, Miles, Parkman and Wragg.

Parkman's efforts to obtain a suspension of rules for amendment were defeated 21 to 12.

HITS AUTHORITY

Parkman deplored one section in the bill which gives Commissioner of Public Works William F. Callahan sole authority to select and approve projects.

"We are giving him complete authority which has never been done before in the history of the commonwealth," Parkman argued.

The speakre moved suspension of a Senate rule to allow him an opportunity to offer an amendment to take the sole authority from Commissioner Callahan.

Objecting to the motion, Senator Carroll of South Boston accused Parkman of trying o delay the bill so as to prevent people from going to work. Senators Thomas M. Burke of Boston and Joseph A. Langone of Boston supported Carroll.

GIRL DYING IN MDIVANI'S FATAL CRASH IDENTIFIED

expensive English car to enable her to catch a train for Paris. The prince was killed instantly.

Mdivani's former wife, Countess Barbara von Haugwitz-Reventlow, American heiress, meanwhile was en route by train to her new husband's estate in Denmark.

She was grief-stricken over the death of the prince.

The eye-witness, Dr. de Palou, told International News Service:

"I was driving along the Figueras-Palamos highway when an open automobile thundered past me, driven by a man apparently naked from the waist up.

"I estimated the speed of the car at about 80 miles an hour.

GIRL'S TONGUE GASHED

"I found Alexis pinned to the ground by the windshield, which was broken and had almost severed his head from his body.

"His companion had been thrown out of the car, flying through the air some 20 yards, and had landed in a field.

"Alexis was wearing blue shorts and canvas shoes."

With the young baroness still unconscious at Gerona, the doctor who treated her said her recovery was "possible but not probable."

According to the eye-witnesses, the baroness was wearing a tan sweater and blue shorts and shoes when she was found near the roadway.

Dr. Palou added:

"A few peasants, including women, helped me carry the woman to a nearby house.

"She was uttering inarticulate cries which I was not able to understand.

"I later found this was due to the fact her tongue had been almost severed.

Madame Russie Sert, sister of Mdivani, whom he and the Baroness had been visiting, had attempted to conceal the young woman's identity until she could communicate with the husband of the Baroness and inform him of the accident.

BARONESS ALMOST DEAD

Dr. Palou said the Baroness was given emergency treatment as soon as she was picked up and then taken to a hospital. He stated:

"While somebody rushed to get a doctor from a nearby village, Yerges, we took the body of Alexis from beneath the car.

"His head was horribly crushed and cut and death must have been instantaneous.

"Two hours after his companion received emergency treatment an ambulance arrived and she was rushed to the hospital in Gerona, where she underwent a trepanning operation, revealing she had received a fractured skull and broken nose and jaw.

"Her tongue was cut in half and her right foot was crushed."

Persons in Palamos, where Mdivani and the girl had been staying prior to the fatal ride, declined to disclose the affairs of the Prince and the Baroness.

The Serts apparently were entertaining a large party at their luxurious villa. Several prominent guests from Paris and London were with Mdivani and his companion at the house.

Mdivani and the girl left the house shortly before midnight.

PLUNGES INTO GULLY

Rearing toward the French border, Mdivani's powerful roadster struck a culvert in a winding road in Albons, Gerona Province, and plunged into a deep gully.

Two hours later, just as her guests were leaving, Mrs. Sert was notified by telephone that a motorist had found an overturned car and that a body had been taken to an undertaking establishment in Albons.

The prince's sister ordered her own car and went immediately to the mortuary. It was believed she would have the body removed soon to her Palamos home.

FEAR GIRL WILL DIE

Surgeons performed an emergency operation on the Prince's injured companion in an attempt to save her life. Suffering from a fractured skull, she was still unconscious this morning, and hospital attendants said there was little chance for her recovery.

Although Mdivani frequently drove from Paris, where he made his headquarters, to visit his sister, he was little known in Spain except among a few intimate friends with whom he occasionally played polo.

The Prince's visit, especially during his estrangement from Barbara Hutton, American heiress to the Woolworth millions, now married to Count Curt Haugwitz-Reventlow, were made in greatest secrecy. His friends co-operated to enable him to cloak his movements successfully.

The prominence of Mdivani's brother-in-law in Spanish art and social circles, however, caused the Spanish press to devote much space to the prince's series of romantic affairs.

Alexis Twice Wedded To Rich American Girls

Prince Alexis Mdivani, son of the late General Zachary Mdivani, former aide-de-camp to Czar Nicholas of Russia, was descended from the Mdivani family which acquired the title of prince in 1762 for military achievements in Georgia, which became a Russian province in 1801.

He was a brother of Prince David Mdivani, former husband of Mae Murray, motion picture actress, and of Prince Serge Mdivani, former husband of another film actress, Pola Negri, and of Mary McCormic, opera singer.

Besides his sister, the wife of Jose Maria Sert, Spanish mural painter, he had another sister, the wife of Charles Huberich, Paris lawyer.

WED TO ASTOR

Alexis's first wife was Louise Astor Van Alen, daughter of Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen, and a direct descendant of John Jacob Astor. They were divorced at The Hague in 1932 after 18 months of marriage.

It was shortly after the ending of his first romance that the prince, making a voyage between the west coast and the Orient, met Miss Barbara Hutton on shipboard. Almost immediately a romance was in the making.

The prince was then 29, and Miss Hutton was 20. The young heiress, disappointed in the "dull and busy life" of the young Americans she had left behind in New York, found in the young prince the glamour and attraction of royalty.

WEDDED IN PARIS

They were married in Paris, in June, 1933, in two ceremonies. The first was a civil ceremony in the Arondissement headquarters, performed by the mayor of the fashionable Passy district.

The second was elaborate, held in the Russian Cathedral of Paris with 800 guests, including social and diplomatic leaders of international society.

"Both the young people, in their afterward, said they were "completely happy."

But fate had not destined Prince Alexis for any greater marital happiness than had been the lot of his brothers—Serge, the former husband of Mae Murray, film actress, and David, former husband of Pola Negri, also later married and divorced by Mary McCormic, Chicago opera singer.

GOES TO SPAIN

The Princess Barbara divorced Prince Alexis in Reno last spring. Shortly thereafter he returned to the continent, playing in polo matches with his string of prized ponies. Later he went to Spain to visit his sister, Senora Sert.

The prince received the news of the Reno divorce with a wistful smile, and declined to comment on honeymoon tour to the Orient and her subsequent marriage to Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, except to say that he wished her "all happiness" in her new marriage.

When Miss Hutton was married to Mdivani she retained full control of her fortune of approximately $42,000,000, but, it was reported, that she gave as a wedding present to her bridegroom a set of pearl shirt studs, a string of polo ponies, $1,500,000 and a trust fund that paid him $50,000 a year.

Brother Will Leave At Once for Spain

Los Angeles, Aug. 2—David and Serge Mdivani, elder brothers of the dead Prince Alexis Mdivani, today planned to leave without delay for Barcelona.

Prince David, who with Serge is interested in oil holdings in Southern California, indicated they might leave during the day or tomorrow for Spain.

Serge was out of the city last night when word was first received of the death of Alexis. David first heard of the accident while attending a party at a fashionable country club.

"I am deeply shocked and there is not much else I can say at a time like this," Prince David said.

"Alexis was a real brother; kind, considerate and extremely good to me. We shall miss him greatly."

Prince Serge is the former husband of Pola Negri, exotic movie actress, and Mary McCormic, the opera singer. Prince David is the ex-mate of Mae Murray, blonde star of the silent screen years. Neither of the two brothers are married now.

"The end of marriage and I think my brothers are, too," said Serge when he returned from a European trip last May, just after Barbara Hutton had divorced Prince Alexis at Reno. "Marriage is too much of a gamble. I'd rather drill oil wells."

Barbara Crushed by News of Mdivani Tragedy

(Copyright, 1935, by International News Service)

Warnemunde, Germany, Aug. 2—Grief-stricken over the tragic death of her former husband, Prince Alexis Mdivani, in an automobile accident in Spain, Countess Barbara Von Haugwitz-Reventlow, American heiress, passed through Warnemunde today en route to her new husband's estate in Denmark. Count Curt Von Haugwitz, who married the wealthy Woolworth heiress following her divorce from Prince Mdivani, told briefly of her grief as they arrived here by train.

"She is completely grief-stricken," he said.

The couple traveled in a special car attached to the regular train from Paris. Their car was detached and shunted directly aboard the international ferry to Denmark.

The countess did not make an appearance. She remained in the interior of the car behind curtained windows and no one was allowed to enter.

Haugwitz appeared for a few minutes at one of the windows and talked briefly to International News Service.

"The news of Prince Mdivani's death," he said, "was broken to Barbara just before she left Paris.

"American newspapermen sent us word of the tragedy.

"The Countess was stricken with grief. She has not been able to discuss the tragedy at all except to express her profound sorrow.

ELOPERS WORRY 3

Hall Forgets Date With Ex-Wife

The whereabouts of yesterday's elopers, socially prominent Dorothea Sears of Brookline and Clair W. Hall of Dennis, became a matter of interest and concern to three persons on Cape Cod today.

No. 1 was Dorothy Eldredge, who divorced Hall a year ago and said she was to have had "a date with him tonight."

No. 2 was Dorothea's aunt, the widow of Dr. Almon Cooper of Brookline.

No. 3 was Hall's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Hall, who is caring for his two children by his first marriage and wants to know whether he is married.

No word has been heard from the elopers since they obtained a five-day waiver at Portland, Me., yesterday and announced they hoped to be married immediately.

Miss Eldredge, who resumed her maiden name after divorcing Hall in May, 1934, was the first person to elope with Hall, a South Dennis call fireman and painter.

She was a Dennis High school girl when they ran away to be married six years ago.

"I am not surprised that my former husband eloped with Miss Sears," she said.

"They had known each other from childhood as Miss Sears has been coming here summers. I hope they will be happy.

"I was to have had a date with my former husband tonight.

"We had seen each other several times during the last two weeks. I guess the date is all off."

Hall's mother telephoned friends of her son in Portland in an attempt to trace the couple but was unsuccessful.

"If my son has been married I don't know why he has failed to telephone or write," she said.

Miss Sears' aunt called on Mrs. Hall and also expressed surprise no word had been received.

PRIEST IGNORES LEGION DENIAL

Rev. Patrick J. Waters, of St. Brigid's Church, South Boston, today refused comment on the finding made by a special investigating committee, on complaint of excessive intoxication at the Michael J. Perkins Post, American Legion.

Father Waters charged that the legion post was nothing more than a "rendezvous for drunkards."

Following a four-hour public hearing at the post's quarters last night a committee composed of former commanders of the post declared the priest's charges as unfounded.

"I have nothing to say in connection with the hearing held last night," was the priest's only comment today.

Members of the Legion post invited Father Waters to attend the hearing and personally register the complaint, but he failed to make an appearance.

leaving the factory to get more strikebreakers, the cars guarded by police passed through the crowd.

Strikers announced they would attempt to imprison the strikebreakers in the plant when it shut down tonight. If forecast an even more bitter battle with police.

The appearance of loyal workers this morning at the plant induced the greatest violence of the day.

Peter Connolly, 38, of Middlesex street, Winchester, was the first casualty.

A smashed window in one of the strikebreakers' cars showered him. Blood from his wound spurted over police nearby.

Robert Merchant of Woburn was run down by the automobile. He suffered a bruised leg.

Two men, John Luongo, 19, of Shepard street, and John J. Scierkay, 28, of Sylvester avenue, both of Winchester, were arrested. Charges of disturbing the peace were continued in Woburn court until August 19.

PAY DAY FOR STRIKERS

Because it is pay day for wages owing strikers before they walked out, a dozen special police officers were added to the regular police on patrol today.

Chief of Police William H. Rogers took personal command of the situation, although feeling is bitter against him, and only yesterday his automobile was stoned.

Under his direction are three sergeants, 17 patrolmen and the 12 special officers.

Pay due the strikers for work before the strike was given them outside the factory gates today. Company officials refused to permit strikers within the yard.

Some hope of settlement was seen when union officials announced they would confer with company officials next Monday afternoon.

WHITE HOUSE DISREGARDS "WHISPERS"

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The White House indicated today that no action would be taken against E. P. Cramer, Plainfield, N. J., advertising man, who testified yesterday to the Senate lobby committee that he had suggested a "whispering campaign" that President Roosevelt was insane.

The President himself has taken no recognition of the testimony.

Legal experts believe criminal action could be instituted under the libel law, but apparently this is not going to be done.

It was indicated the matter would be dropped.

Cramer testified he was "ashamed" of what he had done and had no basis for any belief that the President was insane.

A 17-year-old daughter of Representative Putman (D.), Texas, told the House rules committee that E. V. Sellers, NRA employe, had informed her he knew a box that her father took from the hotel room of John W. Carpenter, Texas utilities official, contained cigars.

Miss Bonnie Putman, on the stand but a few moments, quoted Sellers as telling her after seeing newspaper headlines about the box:

"That's absurd. I guess I know there were cigars in that box. I smoked four of them myself."

Previously, Sellers had denied smoking any of them.

The committee, investigating lobbying for and against the "death" bill, also received testimony from Norris Shook, nephew of the congressman, that the box contained cigars.

It has been testified Putman took the box from the hotel room before the House voted on the utility bill. Putman has said it contained cigars.

Leo Brennan, clerk of a hotel where Sellers lived here, testified that Representative Blanton (D.), Texas, day before yesterday settled the former's bill in cash amounting to $69 and some cents.

House Tries To Go Away With Piano

A freak accident injured two men and upset the peace of Roxbury today.

An upright piano being lowered from the second floor of a house on Hampden street proved too heavy for the chimney used to anchor the block and tackle.

Cascading to the sidewalk it tore 500 pounds of brick and carried away part of the roof and the gutter, all of which clattered with the piano and the moving van of P. F. Shea, backed close to the building.

Joseph Chambers of Telegraph street, South Boston, standing nearby, suffered bruises on his back from flying bricks. James Zenable of Shawmut avenue, South End, helping with the moving, was cut on the left heel.

They were treated at City Hospital and released.

The piano is the property of Job Murphy, whose furniture was being moved to an address on Eustis street, Roxbury.

Postmaster Found Here, Mind in Fog

Burton W. Streeter, Jr., 30, assistant postmaster of Gardner, who vanished on July 13, was found in Boston today by his wife.

Emaciated and sick, apparent victim of amnesia, he said he did not know where he had been.

Mrs. Streeter located him in Park square.

He telephoned his Gardner home and she sped here after prevailing upon him to wait.

His abandoned car was found in Utica, N. Y., several days ago.

Police say that they may have come here on a bus that left him in the Park square area where he regained his senses.

Concern over an impending operation was believed responsible for his lapse.

French Fascist Shot

Paris, Aug. 2 (INS)—Christian Du Bernard, secretary of the Fascist French National Socialist party, was seriously wounded today by an assailant with a revolver in the Communist district of the 13th arrondissement.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID GILLETT

By Associated Press

Westfield, Aug. 2—Simply as was his wish, the funeral of Frederick H. Gillett, former Congressman, Speaker of the House and United States Senator, took place this afternoon in the home of his sister, Miss Lucy D. Gillett.

Municipal business was suspended during the rites and Mayor R. H. Cowing headed an official delegation which included also Mayor Henry Martinez and city council heads of Springfield.

The Hampden County Bar Association was largely represented.

Noted Sculptor Dies

Lawrence Crowd Sees Drowning

Lawrence, Aug. 2—One man drowned and another was rescued here today while salvaging steel from a broken bridge in the Merrimack river, about 100 yards from Central bridge.

Hundreds of persons witnessed the drowning and rescue.

Herman Boone, 42, of Onset, father of two children, was drowned.

William Tierney, 40, also of Onset, was saved.

He was taken to Lawrence General hospital suffering from shock and immersion.

Boone and Tierney had been working in mid-river locating pieces of steel girders which had been carried off during a flood a few years ago.

Both were swimming back to shore when a strong current carried them down stream.

Tierney was rescued by an unidentified fireman, while Boone was swept to his death.

'L' PLAN URGED ON CURLEY

Governor Curley was urged today to send a special message to the Legislature urging passage of enabling legislation to aid removal of Boston Elevated structures.

The appeal came from Acting Corporation Counsel Joseph T. Brennan, Assistant Corporation Counsel Lewis H. Weinstein and Representative Thomas E. Barry of East Boston. They appeared personally before the governor.

Barry told the governor a bill had been drafted but city officials felt the matter would be expedited if the governor sent a special message.

Under the bill as drawn, authority would be given for construction of tunnels or subways from the Union-Friend station to Sullivan square, or from Kneeland street to Forest Hills terminal or over any part of the route.

The bill stipulates that the proposed demolition of the structures and construction of subways could be done only on a 55-45 basis with the Federal Government on approval of the state emergency finance board and Governor.

$35,000 Fire Hits Shrewsbury Park

Shrewsbury, Aug. 2—Fire demolished the $35,000 circle swing in the middle of the White City amusement park on the shore of Lake Quinsigamond here today, endangering $500,000 worth of property.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoover, operators of the nearby roller coaster, and their 4-year-old daughter Betty, asleep in a cottage at the base of the swing, narrowly escaped death when the 75-foot tower crashed within a few feet of their dwelling.

Typo Union Head Laid to Rest

Funeral services for Leo F. Greene, president of the Boston Typographical Union, were held from his home on Derby Road, Melrose, today.

Scores of typographical and labor union leaders, as well as hundreds of friends representing Boston newspapers and printing organizations, attended.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Mary's of the Annunciation Church. Rev. Joseph Burke, D. D., L. L. officiated.

Doggone!

When George C. White of Columbia street, Cambridge, returned home at an early hour today, he was surprised to discover his apartment had been broken into, but it was of a shock when he discovered the bandits had walked off with his watchdog.

White reported to police that $30 and a wrist watch was taken from his apartment, as well as the dog.

WIDOW TRIES SUICIDE IN MYSTERY

By Associated Press

Chicago, Aug. 2—Mandeville Zenge, 26, Canton, Missouri, carpenter, sought in the mutilation murder of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, was seized today in a taxicab garage on the West Side.

Captain Daniel Gilbert of the state attorney's office led a squad into a garage, following a taxirab in which Zenge was riding.

Although the detention was made at 8:30 a. m., it was not announced by Captain Gilbert until nearly 10:30 a. m., after J. Andy Zenge of Canton, Mo., the suspect's father, admitted the man was his son.

"Zenge hasn't talked yet," said Captain Gilbert. "We are questioning him now.

FATHER BREAKS DOWN

Charles S. Dougherty, assistant state's attorney, said that the elder Zenge at first denied that the man in custody was his on, but at 10:15 a. m., admitted he was the man sought.

Police of four states had sought Zenge since Dr. Bauer was found dying early Wednesday. Yesterday Bauer's pretty 23-year-old widow said she had been engaged to Zenge for seven years prior to her marriage to Bauer.

Later, a suicide note was discovered in which Zenge—his handwriting recognized by Mrs. Bauer and relatives—said:

"I am going to jump in the lake." He was "miserable," the note said, over losing Louise, Bauer's wife.

BLOOD SUSPECTED

Police Capt. John Stege at once branded the note a ruse to throw police off the track.

The note was left behind in a cab which Zenge took to Navy pier on Lake Michigan Wednesday night. While the driver waited, Zenge vanished. The driver gave police the note, along with clothes bearing what police said were "unmistakable blood stains."

The capture came only a few hours after the elder Zenke had conferred with the detective squad. Suddenly Erlanson dashed from police headquarters. Then came the arrest.

Zenge's brother, Leighton, 24, walked into the building a few minutes after his brother's arrest was announced.

The father and Mandeville were brought face to face in a dramatic meeting shortly after the arrest.

The Missouri farmer made a pathetic attempt to shield his son, police said, by declaring:

"No, that's not my son."

After continued questioning, the elder Zenge broke down and sobbed:

"Oh, all right—yes; that's Mandeville."

Widow of Mutilation Victim Tries Suicide

Chicago, Aug. 2—Mrs. Louise Schaffer Bauer, widow of the chemistry student who was so crudely mutilated he died here, attempted to leap from the 12th story window of a loop hotel before she went to the inquest into her husband's death.

The disclosure was made by Chief of Police Jim Bowles of Kirksville, Mo., who said he went to her room with a police matron and Mrs. Bauer ran to a window. He said:

"I stepped in front and reasoned with her like a daddy."

The matron maintained a vigil the rest of the time the widow stayed in the room, the chief said.

'ALCOHOLISM PUTS Poet in Hospital

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—Maxwell Bodenheim, the poet and novelist who recently applied for home relief, was taken to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital early today after a friend found him on the sidewalk in Greenwich Village.

At the hospital he was said to be suffering from acute alcoholism. He also had an abrasion on the forehead.

NO-PARKING TANTRUM

Warlike Antics Jail Woman, 55

By Associated Press

Colorado Springs, Aug. 2—"Crusading Carrie" Newton's sign-smashing solution to the parking problem served only to land her in a padded cell and failed utterly to calm her rage.

In police court this afternoon she must answer a charge of "malicious mischief," and apparently will have to find some new method of testing in court whether city officials may grant special parking privileges to business interests.

It all happened yesterday when Mrs. Newton, 55, a bill collector, who must find parking space frequently in her business, was irked at the frequency with which she bumped into signs marked "space reserved," "taxi stand—no parking," and similarly.

She promptly emulated another woman of action—Carry Nation, the Kansas saloon chopper—and was arrested as she tied a "no parking" sign to her machine to drag it about the streets.

Police Chief Hugh D. Harper asked her if she would put up a "reasonable" bond.

"Hell, no!" she retorted.

Booked in the women's quarters of the city jail, Mrs. Newton smashed windows until officers moved her into the padded cell.

"I'll tear down those signs as fast as they put them up," she vowed when she was released later.

Police avoided charging her with a parking violation, as that was what she declared she wanted.

"I just want a chance to take such a case to the Supreme Court and prove the City Council has no right to lease the streets," she asserted.

When asked as to her course in court today, Mrs. Newton said she probably will plead not guilty and, upon release, renew her one-woman war on the signs.

Those Friendly Quins Want You To Meet Their New Nurse

NURSE EVA GAGNE AND MARIE DIONNE

There's no doubt about it. Marie Dionne is fond of her new nurse, Eva Gagne, an attractive brunette, who loves babies in general and the quintuplets in particular (as who doesn't.) A native of Ontario, and trained in an Ottawa hospital, Miss Gagne is substituting for Nurse Yvonne Leroux, who is taking her first vacation since the birth of the quins 15 months ago.

NURSE EVA GAGNE AND EMELIE DIONNE

Emelie, too, is already a fast friend, indeed pal of Nurse Eva Gagne, substituting for Nurse Yvonne Leroux, who is on vacation. So pleased is Emelie that she even obeys the photographer in following the birdie which she thinks she sees. "I can't see it," says Emelie dubiously. But Miss Gagne only laughs and tells her to keep looking. (World Copyright, 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)

Pianist Here Hurt In Maine Mystery

Portland, Me., Aug. 2—Arthur Jacobs, Boston concert pianist, also known as Franklin Arthur, was mysteriously and critically injured here today.

He staggered into police headquarters and collapsed. At Maine General hospital he was found to have suffered a fracture of the jaw and a possible fracture of the skull.

He was dazed and unable to say what had happened.

Police believe he may have been beaten by thugs.

Jacobs is about 35 years old.

His family has a summer estate on Great Chebeague Island in Casco Bay and he is believed to have been staying there.

He has made many concert tours and accompanied many famous artists appearing at Boston Symphony Hall.

Two years ago he tried unsuccessfully to launch a series of outdoor concerts by the Portland Symphony Orchestra.

Cool? Weather Man Thinks So

It all depends on what you call cool.

The weather man promised that today would be "cool"—but maybe he was thinking of Addis Ababa, or Amritsar, India's below-sea-level town where a mere 100 is a chilly day.

In Boston, it stayed around the high 70's most of the morning and climbed in a sunshine that added to the heat.

"There's the breeze!" was heard at times during the day, but such relief didn't last long.

RASKOB'S SON To Boss Mines

SEVITZKY Goes Under Knife

Fabien Sevitsky, conductor of the Metropolitan Theater orchestra, was operated on for abdominal trouble at Phillips House today.

His condition was reported "very comfortable." Dr. Alles performed the operation.

2 CAR CRASH Hurts 5 in Quincy

Five persons, injured in a two-car crash at Quincy avenue near the Southern artery, were treated at Quincy City Hospital today.

They gave their names as Timothy J. Sullivan, 57, of May street, East Braintree, driver of one car; and John Leroy, 39, of Arborway drive, East Braintree, driver of the other. The passengers included Miss Olive Stephens, 20, of Richmond street, Weymouth, and Mr and Mrs. William Barks, of Richmond street, Weymouth.

Schooled

Naugatuck, Conn., Aug. 2 (AP)—Miss Theresa Sweney, former principal of the Rubber Avenue school, looked back with pride today on a record of attendance probably unequaled throughout the country—9000 school days with but six absences.

The veteran educator missed six days owing to an injury, it was reported last night at the Board of Education meeting following announcement that Miss Sweney had resigned June 21.

SKIPPER DIES After Bangor Trip

A few minutes after bringing his crowded ship safely from Bangor to port here today, Captain Charles C. Crockett of the Eastern Steamship liner Belfast, walked from the bridge to his cabin and fell dead.

Heart disease is believed to have caused death.

Captain Crockett was 60 and a native of Winterport, Me.

SCHULTZ FREED, WILL PAY TAX

By Associated Press

Malone, N. Y., Aug. 2—Freed by a country jury which received a bitter tongue-lashing from the court for its verdict, Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer was determined to discharge his income tax obligation.

Shortly after a federal jury decided last night the former Bronx beer baron was innocent of evading payment of $92,000 income taxes, Schultz said through an attorney:

"We intend to pay."

The debt amounts to slightly more than $92,000, including interest and penalties.

U. S. WARNED MONTHS AGO RUSSIA BROKE PACT

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Washington, Aug. 2—How the state department, more than five months ago, was officially advised that the Russian Soviet government had broken its formal pledge to abstain from vicious, Communistic propaganda for overthrow of the United States was revealed by Congressman Charles Kramer, secretary of the congressional committee to investigate un-American activities.

Congressman Kramer, a California Democrat, declared:

1—That the Litvinoff treaty with the United States pledged Russia "not to permit the formation" in Russia of any group "which has as aim to overthrow or bring about by force any change in the political or social order of the United States."

2—That the Communist International, within a month after this treaty, adopted a resolution at Moscow in which it declared for revolution to "confiscate the banks, factories, mines, lands, church and government" in the United States as elsewhere.

3—That American Communists participated in the international convention which adopted this "hostile program."

4—That the resolutions were sent to this country and were adopted verbatim by the central committee of the American Communist party at New York and by the national convention of the Communist party at Cleveland.

5—That the congressional committee examined Earl Browder, executive secretary of the American Communist party at New York last spring and obtained from him the admission that there was "distinct political continuity" between the adoption of the revolutionary resolutions at Moscow and by the Communist organizations in this country.

ENDS INQUIRY

"On February 15, last, more than five months ago, the Congressional Committee completed its investigation and its recommendations, and I sent them to the state department at once.

"I gave to the state department all the evidence that was collected by the committee in both its public and private sessions and during which Browder was examined and made his admissions.

"The committee declared that in its opinion Russia had broken its solemn treaty pledges to the United States, that the Communist Internationale is guilty of vicious propaganda designed to stir up trouble in this country and that the Communistic scheme violates the traditions and purposes of the American people and their government."

Browder, at Moscow last Sunday, revealed to the Communist Internationale the efforts of the American Communists to provoke a "revolution" here and to capture the American labor, farmers' and college students' movements.

The State Department professed its "surprise" at this and ordered a copy of Browder's report. The report has been received from Ambassador Bullitt. Acting Secretary of State Phillips disclosed that he may submit the matter to President Roosevelt.

URGED OVERTHROW

The congressional committee declared in its report, which the state department received, that the purpose of Communist activity in the United States was found to be as follows:

"The overthrow by force and violence of the Republican form of government guaranteed by the constitution of the United States.

"Confiscation of private property by governmental decree.

"Restriction of the rights of religious freedom, of speech and of the press as guaranteed by the constitution."

The committee further declares:

"The oppositions of the philosophies of Communism and American ideals of Democracy are so direct and so fundamental that they cannot exist together.

"Communism, moreover, is of foreign origin and is directed by an alien organization outside the United States.

"We see the un-American character of the Communist party in the United States. It is a party recognized on an international scale, governed and controlled by a constitution and rules emanating from the Communist Internationale, with headquarters in Moscow and dedicated to the overthrow of government by violence and force."

MUSSOLINI TO CALL MORE TROOPS; WARNS LEAGUE

By International News Service

Rome, Aug. 2—Premier Benito Mussolini, determined to show the world the League of Nations cannot swerve him from his determined course in East Africa, today decided to call more Italian troops to the colors for colonial duty.

The move will be announced tonight or tomorrow, it was learned, and will be timed purposely to coincide with the League's Geneva mission as a warning that Italy's course already has been mapped.

Il Duce, it was said in high quarters, is anxious to convince the world "of the futility of Geneva peace parleys and of parliamentary verbiage."

Martial Law Looms For Ethiopian Capital

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, Aug. 2—Emperor Haile Selassie's advisers were authoritatively reported today considering martial law for Addis Ababa to control the thousands of wild troops pouring into the capital to enlist for possible action against Italy.

The government rushed armed guards to defend railway bridges after stones on the rails derailed a car. A Rodeoanesian employe of the railway, an Italian subject, was killed.

It was reported the Italian legation had protested his death, though authorities said they did not know whether the stones had been intentionally placed or whether a landslide accounted for them.

League Suspends Meet For Cocktail Party

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press

Geneva, Aug. 2—Faced with the opposition of both Italy and Ethiopia to their suggestions for a peace formula, leaders of the League of Nations Council abandoned the idea of a public session of the body tonight and decided, provisionally, to hold a cocktail party instead.

The cocktail party, they said, probably would be held at the home of J. A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the league.

They indicated they hoped delegates might engage in an unofficial discussion at that time of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, the matter which summoned them to extraordinary session in Geneva.

Both Premier Mussolini of Italy and Delegate Tecle Hawariate of Ethiopia were understood to have expressed their opposition to certain phases of a formula prepared in joint conference by diplomats of Great Britain, France and Italy.

The receipt of Mussolini's objection was followed with an announcement by the French that they hoped to have a council session later in the day. The change in this plan for a session was understood to have been influenced by demands of Hawariate for a modification of the formula.

Private Duce

Geneva, Aug. 2 (US)—"I am ready to go to Africa and to the front with my soldiers. I would even be glad to go as a private in the ranks for the glory of my country if it is necessary."

This was the patriotic outburst made by Premier Mussolini to a high diplomat in Geneva in a private telephone talk from Rome, Universal Service was informed in a high diplomatic quarter here tonight.

British Subjects Slaves In Ethiopia, Is Charge

By Associated Press

Oxford, England, Aug. 2 — Sir John Harris told the All-Peoples Association conference today that British subjects are being held as slaves in Ethiopia.

"It is said part of the Italian case against Ethiopia is a certain number of raids have taken place in Italian territory," said the Parliamentary secretary to the Anti-Slavery and Aborigines Protection Society.

"It should be remembered that as many as 100 raiders have crossed into British territory. There are British subjects held as slaves within Ethiopia.

WOMEN OF ETHIOPIA

Called to Arm for Battle

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press

Addis Ababa, Aug. 2—A stirring call to the women of Ethiopia to arise in active fighting legions was sounded today by Woizero Asagadatch, daughter of Dedjazmatch Haptemikael.

"I will organize and lead our own army of women," said the daughter of the former cabinet minister, who commands Emperor Haile Selassie's field army.

"The women must fight today just as our mothers and grandmothers helped fight and conquer the same foes at Adua 40 years ago—and by fight, I mean with rifles, spears and knives, not just nursing and cooking."

Clad in smart military garb, with a cartridge belt and revolver holster strung around her waist, Asagadatch, of Ethiopia's highest nobility and great-granddaughter of Ras Tessamma, late regent during the illness of former Emperor Menelik, was interviewed at her home.

She had appealed for funds at a rally of 500 Ethiopian Ladies of the Red Cross Society, joined by Miss Paula Leeler, American journalist, and Abba Baich, a favorite of capital society.

Mass recruiting proceeded, with warriors—convinced that open conflict with Italy was approaching—besieging the recruiting stations erected quickly after Emperor Haile Selassie and tribal chieftains concluded a secret two-day council.

The "Black Eagle of Harlem," Colonel Hubert Julian, took a prominent part in the military activities. This gave rise to reports that the American Negro flier who has volunteered his services to Ethiopia would take command of the empire's air force.

Orlando's Daughter Backs Mussolini Drive

Copyright, 1935, Universal Service

Chicago, Aug. 2—Economic advantages for Italy in a victorious war with Abyssinia would outweigh any chances Mussolini might run in endangering the nation's domestic finances, Mrs. A. G. Garibelli, daughter of Signor Orlando, Italy's war time premier said here today.

Stopping here en route to the West Mrs. Garabelli said:

"Mussolini has made his plans for financing any difficulty in Africa. We don't worry much about the economic aspects of the affair.

"The economic advantages will make any sacrifice worth while."

Asked if Mussolini was not being shunted into the embroglio because of the weakening of his position in Italy due to domestic opposition, Mrs. Garabelli said:

"That is not true.

"I have never found Italy so enthusiastic as now. People are volunteering for the African affair. It is not like the first days of the World War when there was much confusion. Everyone today is earnest and goes about his work.

"Everyone is backing Mussolini."

MORGENTHAU ASSAILED BY TREADWAY

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—An assertion that Secretary Morgenthau "either was ashamed of" the $270,000,000 tax bill or lacked the ability to analyze it was made in House debate on the measure today by Representative Treadway (R-Mass.)

Treadway quoted Morgenthau's testimony yesterday before the Senate finance committee, when the secretary refused to condemn or approve the House ways and means committee's bill, and then added:

"Either he was ashamed of it or he couldn't analyze it. I think he couldn't."

The Massachusetts Republican spoke after Representative Samuel B. Hill (D.) of Washington had frankly told the House that Democratic ways and means committeemen wrote the bill without consulting members of the minority party.

"The responsibility was ours," Hill said. "We knew from the beginning that they (Republicans) opposed the legislation and we accepted the job."

DRIVE DELAYED

Leaders were striving to get the bill through by tomorrow night, but were receiving little co-operation. Only 30 members were present as the House met at 10 a. m., two hours earlier than usual.

Six hours of debate was allotted, but the final vote will be delayed long beyond that time. The bill will be opened for amendments and each will be debated.

The Senate finance committee continued its hearings on the measure today. One witness—Franklin W. Ganse of Boston—asserted that the House bill represented a "seizure" instead of a "distribution" of wealth in respect to inheritance taxes.

HOSPITALS PLEAD

"The title of the bill," he said, "should be changed from a bill to equalize taxation to a bill to discriminate against the rich and increase unemployment."

Robert Jolly of Houston, Texas, representing the American Hospital Association, asked the committee to exempt from taxation individual and corporate gifts to non-profit hospitals.

Chicago Builders Blast 'Confiscatory' Levy

By Universal Service

Chicago, Aug. 2—The Associated Builders of Chicago, representing approximately 300 contractors, had today added its voice to the protest to Washington against enactment of the "soak the thrifty" tax.

It declared that enactment of the confiscatory tax measure would be a shattering blow to an industry already severely crippled by the depression.

Bequest Tax Rapped As Industry Peril

By Universal Service

Baltimore, Aug. 2—If President Roosevelt's "soak the thrifty" tax legislation now before the House ways and means committee is passed by Congress the heavy inheritance taxes proposed may result in destruction of substantial business enterprises, and thus add to the unemployment situation, Irving H. YEAR-OLD WRIT Traps Mrs. Green

Mrs. Pauline Green, 35, of Jerusalem road, Cohasset, was arrested in Hingham today on a default warrant issued September 25, 1934.

Failure to appear in Quincy court last year, when she was charged with concealing leased property, caused the issue of the default warrant.

The property in question is an automobile, purchased through the Auto Owners' Finance Co. of Boston.

Turned over to the Cohasset police, she was taken to Hull police station, where she was held in $1000 bail.

INDIA 'FREED' IN 4 WORDS

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 2—One of the most momentous political events of the 20th century, profoundly affecting 350,000,000 lives, took place today when four words of archaic Norman French, "Le roy le veult," a royal commission gave the King's assent to a law granting self-government to India.

Most of India's hundreds of millions are unaware of what has happened and ignorant of the great battle fought in the British Parliament for nearly eight years to bring to fruition Indian leaders' aspirations for partial independence as a move for dominion status within the British commonwealth of nations.

The bill produced the greatest flood of oratory in the history of Parliament, running more than 15,000,000 words.

The act itself, 105,000 words long, welds 1,100,000 square miles of British India and 700,000 square miles—600 states governed by native princes—into a gigantic federation.

N. E. CRUSADERS HIT "THRIFTY" TAX BILL

The modified "soak the thrifty" tax bill as well as the more radical "share the wealth" projects were assailed today as being un-American and un-constitutional.

The attack upon President Roosevelt's proposed plan of taxation was made in a report issued by The Crusaders of New England.

The report in part, read:

"The modified "Soak the thrifty' tax bill, tentatively agreed upon by the House ways and means committee in Washington, as well as the more radical share the wealth' projects, largely originate in the erroneous belief that only a small group of people own most of the country's resources.

"This fallacy has been fostered by the widely circulated rumor that only two per cent of the people own 80 per cent of its wealth. This belief is wholly without foundation of fact, as official government records show.

"A study of the U. S. income tax returns reveals that the wealth of this country is probably distributed more equitably than in any other nation. About 85 per cent of the nation's income goes to workers in the form of wages, salaries and income from enterprises.

"The remaining 15 per cent of the country's income is derived from invested capital, and represents returns from investments in real estate, insurance, stocks and bonds and other enterprises. Most of this goes to people of small means who are either wholly or in part dependent upon this investment from their savings.

"It is the hope of this organization that President Roosevelt's tax plan of 'soak the thrifty' be defeated. If acted favorably upon by Congress every effort will be made to have the Supreme Court declare it un-constitutional.

A NEW GASOLINE THAT NAMED ITSELF!

WHEN we inquired of our chemists what was new and different about our new American Gas, one of them said, "Among other things, it's not acid-treated, it's not necessary to add outside chemicals, and it's "air-conditioned".

"What do you mean, "air-conditioned"? he was asked. "You know," he answered, "how a motor acts up with ordinary gasoline when you run into sudden changes of temperature and humidity. In the course of a day there are a lot of such variations.

"Well, this new gas, as you know, is produced from a 100% pure petroleum base. By careful adjustment of light end content we're able to condition this gasoline at the new refinery so that it counteracts erratic tendencies in the motor due to outside temperature and humidity changes.

"There's been a lot of talk," he continued "about 'uniform performance' of gasoline. But it's built right into this gasoline—you fill up at any of our pumps from Maine to Florida and, whether you drive long distances or short distances, your motor will never notice any change in weather or climate. This gasoline is "air-conditioned" and different."

And from that moment on it was known as "AIR-CONDITIONED" American Gas. It was named for how it's produced—for what it is and what it does!

"AIR-CONDITION" YOUR MOTOR!

Stop at any Yellow and Black American Gas pump and fill up your tank with "AIR-CONDITIONED" American Gas. Then keep your car "air-conditioned" with this amazing new "AIR-CONDITIONED" American Gas. Even though it costs us more to produce, it is being sold at regular gas price from Maine to Florida and inland, by thousands of American dealers and stations.

FOES MUST DIE, NAZIS WARN IN NEW CODE

By Associated Press

Berlin, Aug. 2—Roland Freisler, state secretary for the Ministry of Justice, disclosed today that activity against the Nazi party and its organizations will be regarded as treason against the people and will be punished by death.

"It must be clear that the Nazi movement is the pillar of the German nation and it must be protected by provisions against treasonable activities," he said.

The state secretary outlined 15 points, many of them dealing with technical questions, to be covered by the forthcoming penal code.

"Treasonable activities against the people are the most severe crimes," he said. "Traitors place themselves outside the community and a severe crime of this kind must be punished with outlawry, including the death penalty."

Severe punishment also would be provided for treasonable action by foreigners, he added, but such action could not be termed treason because foreigners are bound only by an obligation of hospitality.

HONOR VON HINDENBURG

His pronouncement was issued as Germany observed the first anniversary of the death of Von Hindenburg, but excluded the war veterans who were close to the marshal's heart—the Steel Helmeter—from participating in services at his grave.

The day also marked the end of the first year of absolute rule by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. While Von Hindenburg liver, Hitler was only chancellor, but immediately thereafter he assumed sole power.

The Stahlhelm, war veterans' organization, subjected with Jews and "political Catholics" to the campaign against "state enemies," were omitted from those permitted to take part in the Von Hindenburg ceremonies.

ARMY REBUILT

Germany's army, which Von Hindenburg disbanded after the World War, meanwhile, was well on its way to rapid reconstruction. The new army has been spread over the Reich as fast as garrisons can be built.

The Doeberitz infantry regiment settled down today in its new quarters at Neustrelitz, while a section of the provincial police was being taken over formally by the Reichswehr regular army().

This step was provided for May 21 by a universal training law, proclaimed by the Nazi regime.

The entire German press dedicated its front pages to Von Hindenburg.

The Volkszeitung compared the former President to George Washington, first President of the United States, saying:

"The same words which refer to Washington can be applied to Von Hindenburg. 'First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen.'"

The Catholic newspaper, Germania, reminded the Reich that Von Hindenbrug embodied Christianity in Germany.

"His words to Reichsbishop Mueller are not forgotten, 'Please give your utmost attention that Christianity may be preached to the German nation.'" Germania said. "This is our late President's religious testament."

Secret police officials, meanwhile, denied emphatically that Werner Neuman, killed "as a peace disturber woh attacked a secret policeman," was Jewish.

"Werner euman was an Aryan and had nothing whatever to do with Jews," said a spokesman for the secret police.

"Stories that he was non-Aryan just amount to atrocity monging and there is nothing to them."

Apology Is Absent In U. S. Nazi Note

Washington, Aug. 2—The diplomatic exchange of notes with the German government over the ripping of the Nazi flag from the liner Bremen at New York was complete today with a State Department reply that the incident was in no sense due to neglect on the part of American authorities.

No apology had been demanded, and none was forthcoming in the answer given yesterday to Charge D'Affaires Rudolf Leitner by Acting Secretary William Phillips.

Berlin Correspondent Expelled by Nazis

Berlin, Aug. 2—Officials confirmed today that Dr. Ernst Klein, Berlin correspondent of the Swiss newspaper Basler Nachrichten, has been expelled from Germany and must leave within five days.

The correspondent's newspaper, a Protestant daily, has displayed great interest in the German church conflict.

A Nautical Fair Deckhand

(Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer)

The good ship D'Ormandie docked on the lawn of St. John's church, in Beverly Ferms, as a nautical fair for the benefit of the church had its annual presentation yesterday. Among the "deck hands" was Barbara Stevens, of Manchester, who led a crew of balloon and cigarette sellers.

Maine to Probe Berry Deaths

By Associated Press

Winslow, Me., Aug. 2—A county investigation impended today into the deaths of two of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCaslin of Winslow, reputedly victims of poisonous berries.

Shortly before Harry McCaslin, Jr., five, died last night, County Attorney Francis H. Bate and Dr. John G. Towne of Waterville decided to investigate the death of the boy's sister, Ella May, seven.

Meanwhile, Dr. A. C. Ross, who said the girl died of infectious diarrhea, caused by poisonous berries, reported that two other McCaslin children remained in a serious condition.

SHERMAN READY TO REPUDIATE CONFESSION

Worcester, Aug. 2—Newell P. Sherman does not expect to go to the electric chair.

Asked how he would get around the confession he is alleged to have made to state detectives, the 240-pound choir singer indicated that he would repudiate it.

He seemed resigned to his incarceration in Worcester County jail, but stated that "the sooner this thing is over the better."

His defense is expected to be that his wife, Alice Dudley Sherman, met with an accident while they were canoeing on Lake Singletary.

But District Attorney Owen A. Hoban, who has just returned from a vacation in Nantucket, said that he would bring Shermans case before the grand jury August 19.

It was apparent that the case would be pushed through for a quick trial.

"TOOK ALL KINDS OF PILLS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF"

Constipation, Due to Insufficient "Bulk," Relieved by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

A fine letter from Mrs. Snyder: "I have had trouble* with my bowels for years, taking all kinds of pills and drugs, with no relief.

"One year ago, I saw Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and bought a package. I have good movements every day. I am 73 years old. I am telling my friends what bran has done for me."—Mrs. Sallie Snyder, 918 N. Craft Ave., Hollywood, Cal.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to correct common constipation. With each meal, in serious cases.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this food in place of patent medicines.

At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Fair at Beverly Farms Aids St. John's Church

By BETTY ALDEN

THERE'S ALWAYS a fair somewhere . . . You can pick up the paper of almost any city and read "fair today and fair tomorrow."

Yesterday's fair was held at Beverly Farms, under the auspices of St. John's Church . . . From mid-morning until dusk the lawns of the churchyard were crowded with fair-goers, and with the faithful members of the committee to whom so much credit is due for the splendid success of their annual venture . . .

ALICE BURRAGE

Being a nautical fair this year, described as a cruise of the S. S. D'Ormandie, the fair grounds were entered via a long gangplank, and the booths were arranged on long decks with bright awnings sheltering the salesladies and their wares from the sun . . .

Treat for Children

AS WE TRAVERSED the gangplank and landed on one of the decks of this super-liner, we were attracted to a delighted group of children fishing for grabs . . . Instead of the usual pig-in-the-poke sort of grab-bag, there was an ingenious arrangement which allowed each child to think he was an accomplished deep sea fisherman . . . The little "grabbers" were seated in a bright blue dory and given a fishing line which they cast over the side and then pulled back, finding to their surprise and delight that a package had been caught upon their hooks . . .

The girls in charge of the grabs reminded us of the fond parents who gave Johnny an electric train for Christmas and then proceeded to play with it all day themselves . . . for even though the children were pleased, "Fuzzy" Fabyan and "Catsie" Richardson were getting much more enjoyment out of running the grabs than the kiddies themselves . . .

"Fuzzy," whose real name is Frances, is one of the debs of next winter, and a sweet, friendly girl she is, deriving her nickname from the mop of reddish gold curls which frames her round, radiant face . . . With her unaffected, gracious manner, "Catsie" won her way into the hearts of the social world several years ago when she made her bow at The Country Club . . . Yesterday she wore a very pretty and individual dress of dusty rose challis with brown accessories . . .

Also enjoying their duties at the fair were three young waitresses in the "Lido Cafe," Anne Tredick of Cambridge, Justine Hooper and Margaret Goodhue of Boston and Manchester . . . A pretty and animated group of sub-debs, they found it great fun to take people's orders and fill them in true waitress fashion . . .

Anne Sortwell in Linen Dress

IN A BRISK TURN about the decks of the D'Ormandie we encountered Anne Sortwell who is up and about again, taking her usual active part in North Shore social activities . . . She wore a tomato color linen dress and hat and made a pretty contrast with the blue of Alice Burrage's soft angora coat as they strolled about together . . . Mrs. Alvin F. Sortwell in bright canary yellow was one of the patrons of the popular puppet show . . .

A Latin Quarter Book stall, for all the world like those lining the banks of the Seine, was presided over by a bevy of socialites including Mrs. Lyon Weyburn, chairman, in a delicate red and white printed chiffon dress; Mrs. M. Lee Frothingham, in one of the outstanding outfits of the day, a daffodil color dress with a huge coarse straw hat of green and yellow checks . . . Mrs. William H. Coolidge, Jr., Mrs. E. L. Mitchell who wore a tailored white boucle suit; Mrs. Joseph B. Hoyt and Mrs. Charles Putnam Smith were other saleslades at the book stall . . .

Some of the things which marked this nautical fair with an air of individuality were the rides on Johnnie Newman's sheep and Billy Goat instead of the usual pony rides for kiddies; the rare and beautiful flowers which Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge and Mrs. Nathaniel Simpkins sold in great profusion at their flower booth; the mint punch, sold by Susan Means and Mrs. Robert Steinert; the Punch and Judy Show where the mothers and their youngsters found amusement and relaxation after doing the rounds of the tables . . .

Mrs. Justin Griess with her youngest daughter were two of the prettiest and best-dressed fair-goers . . . Mrs. John Flint attended in time to take her youngsters to the puppet show and Mrs. Joseph Hoyt, Jr., with her daughter, Joanna, were another very attractive mother and daughter couple . . . In a gay yellow frock with brown accessories Mrs. Francis Fiske was a very jolly companion to her two small sons . . . Anne Means, as red headed as her popular sister Susan, and Louise Reggio visited from one booth to another . . .

North Shore Society Well Represented

HELEN FOSTER AND POLLY WARDWELL were there together . . . Also there were Barbara Brewer, Gwen Livermore, Ruth Weyburn, Susanne Seyburn and her constant companion, Dot Potter, Mrs. Hamilton Osgood, 2d, the two Merrill girls who are very dignified young ladies, and kin to all the distinguished Ayers on the North Shore . . .

Mrs. John B. Thomas and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich were busy workers at the rummage sale, with Mrs. Galbraith Mitchell and Mrs. William Endicott Dexter lending invaluable assistance. Peggy and Toodles Pierce were surrounded by a gay young crowd all afternoon as were the Backus girls, Merrill Bunce and Phyllis Forbes . . .

Barbara Stevens and Margaret Esson added to the nautical illusion with their giddy sailor costumes . . . Mrs. Frank Seabury in a flowered dress of blue and white, Mrs. Rufus Sewall, Miss Eleanor Fabyan, Miss Alice Thorndike, who was general chairman of the whole fair, Virginia Phelan, Charles Wallis, Renee Schanck and Evelyn Lilly in vivid pajamas, Mrs. Samuel Welldon, Lucy and Nancy Cochrane wearing tomato colored sweaters over green and white checked shorts.

POST-DEBS Are Waitresses At Benefit

MISS MARY IVES MISS JANE BOGARDUS

MISS ROSAMOND EMERSON MISS ELIZABETH McBEATH

THESE FOUR POST debs appear to be made up for the chorus of the old show "Bandana Days," but they are really in the utilitarian costumes of waitresses which they wore at the luncheon given at Mrs. Harold G. Cutler's estate in Swampscott yesterday and the day before. They are Miss Mary Ives, Miss Jane Bogardus, Miss Rosamond Emerson and Miss Elizabeth McBeath.

Society Notes

MRS. GEORGE VON L. MEYER, JR., of Hamilton has left for New York, where she will meet Mr. Meyer and their sons, Charles and George Von L. Meyer, 3d, who returned yesterday from a trip to Rome, Italy, with Mr. Meyer's mother, Mrs. George Von L. Meyer, Sr.

OWEN D. YOUNG "Grandpa" Now

New York, Aug. 2 (INS)—Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Company, became a grandfather today through the birth of a nine-pound son to his daughter, Mrs. Josephine Young Case at Polyclinic Hospital.

Mrs. Case, who is the wife of Everett N. Case of New York, was reported doing well.

ARTHUR BRISBANE, the world's most widely read editor, columnist and commentator of events, every day in the Boston Evening American.

This Is Life by ROBERT E. ROGERS

I remember once being informed by Dean Henry W. Holmes of the Harvard Graduate School of Education that New Yorkers—native sons like himself—do not say "thoid" and "boid" and "Goity," as in the old song . . .

Pretty Goity Moiphy costainly is a boid,
She lives at thoity-second street,
Next to thoity-thoid . . .

Like Bernard Shaw he deplored the insufficiency of our alphabet to make a proper notation of the curious sounds upon the lips of the Manhattanese. The sound—so far as it can be reproduced without a phonetic alphabet—is more like "theyrty," with just a hint of a dissyllable.

Robert E. Rogers

But I wasn't going to speak about that. A mere news item has suddenly brought before my memory's eyes a flash of Dr. Holmes's handsome, serene face with the bland smile and the clean-cut, spare Eliot profile . . . the man who gives more the effect old Prexy Eliot used to give than anyone I know.

Unlike most educators, he seldom says silly things, the things all educators get off in their more confidential moments and which get into the papers and confirm many worthy but illiterate citizens in their belief that "readin' rots the mind."

But like Homer and all educators he sometimes nods, and when he nods the result sounds not unlike the lucubrations of the traditional University of Chicago professor of a generation ago, at whom Mr. Dooley of Archey road was always hurling sugared darts dripping with Hibernian venom. (But there are no snakes in Ireland!)

Seek Knowledge

This time it is the old wisdom about the need for educators to leave the cloisters and go forth seeking new knowledge, disregarding the fact that we have not yet exhausted the teach possibilities of what we know now. And the proposal to teach new things brings him round with the usual promptness to that hoary piece of hokum "there ought to be a course." On what? Bless you, of course, "a course on marriage!"

It was only a summer school evening lecture, and the New Lecture Hall (which was the New Lecture Hall 35 years ago), however airy and filled with good-looking young teachers, brave women and fair men, is no place for profundity, but I do think the Dean might have been just a shade less Middle Western. Such remarks sound so much like what the young dears are accustomed to in their own state universities that they will hardly know they are at Harvard.

I presume the Dean was not advocating such courses as are demanded or offered in so many of our large educational cafeterias. Not courses in snappy dressing and proper makeup, not courses in what Temple University in Philadelphia once called "charm," I believe. I doubt if Dean Holmes is interested in the "mantrap" courses.

On the other hand, I am rather afraid that he might underestimate proper instruction in the more homely kinds of cottage cookery (without benefit of cans), in cottage carpentry, such as driving nails and pasting wall paper, and in the proper management of a cottage still room.

Visualizing

Out of his own mouth I must accuse the Dean of visualizing a "course on marriage" in strictly scholarly terms, which may educate the head but which will have little enough effect on the heart, which really is the seat of the trouble.

"They ought to know more about heredity," said Dean Holmes, "about marriage and the family and population. Their views on human conduct should be based more on a realistic understanding of instinct, natural endowment, learning, individual differences in ability, and duties and loyalties."

The trouble with all this, of course, is that it is simply over the heads of most of the little nitwits who make a mess of marriage. The people of Dean Holmes' own class and intellectual level know a good deal, but are willful and spoiled. The great majority know nothing about anything, and are willful and spoiled.

Any course on marriage would have to be based less on heredity and eugenics and statistics of population than on plain old fashioned decency and good manners. It would have to teach all the spoiled and willful young people, whose parents were fools before them, how to get along through the first dangerous years, not one by one in courses, but by two in that awful routine monotony of home life after one has been footloose.

What is wanted is not science, but good manners, ethics, good manners again, a bit of religion, and, last and most important, good manners. These will save more marriages than all the research sociology in the world.

Big Market Day Benefit for Scituate Fete Planned

It will be market day with a vengeance at "The Old Clift Trading Post" on Wednesday, August 7, where gayly decorated push carts, piled high with fruit and vegetables, tempting tables of candies and food of every variety, household articles and grabs, will transform "Clift Cote," summer home of Mrs. James G. Clarke on First Cliff, Scituate, into a place of hilarious carnival spirit, for the benefit of the Scituate Women's Club.

At 2 o'clock a pet show, the first of its kind to be held in Scituate, will be presided over by three competent judges, with the much coveted ribbons for various classes.

At 2:30 Miss Barbara Coleman, assisted by Miss Janet Holland of Washington, D. C., will present a puppet show, entitled "The Emperor's New Clothes," for the benefit of the young children. A large committee headed by Mrs. Grace Ketterer have selected some unique games for the midway.

Bridge Also

In an advantageous setting overlooking the ocean afternoon bridge will start at 2, in charge of Mrs. E. Harold Lane. Auction, whist and contract will be played, with trophies and refreshments.

Attics and cellars have been rummaged to fill the antique table, which promises to hold some things of real value and charm. Mrs. Charles Dyer, herself a collector of glass, will be in charge. Mrs. William Smith of Scituate is presiding over the food; Mrs. Willis Taylor, candy, and Mrs. Andrew Finnie, Mrs. George Vollmer and Mrs. Robert Dyment will push their wares around.

When evening comes, supper will be served on the cool green lawns. Junior members of the club will serve as waitresses.

The gentlemen will claim the attention of the audience during the evening with a real style show of the latest apparel for men modelled by John Ketteser, Ray Davis, Louis Keyes, Leighton Chipman, Bill Wade, Stacy Bearse and Sanford Fitts. Mrs. Edward P. Breen arranged the show.

In case of rain the fair will be held on August 8.

Water Supply Faulty, "Trouble Fixer" Told

"THE TROUBLE FIXER"

Public Service Department, Boston Evening American.

This department has been instituted as a public service for Boston Evening American readers. It will endeavor to solve problems and fix trouble dealing with city, state, or public utility service. Requests must be specific and brief. No anonymous requests, nor matter of a purely private nature can be considered.

C. O. of St. Alphonsus avenue, Roxbury, writes that she is having trouble with the water supply. "The Trouble Fixer" learned from the Water Department that since there is no city water main located on St. Alphonsus street, water is supplied through a private pipe, which is owned by the property owners. This pipe is too small. The Water Department is sending an engineer to investigate to see if there is demand enough to warrant the city setting up a water main.

A report comes from Owen A. Gallagher, acting commissioner of the Boston Traffic Commission, following his investigation of a request that Hazelwood street, Roxbury, be made a one-way street from Munroe to Townsend street. The suggestion was sent in by Theodore R. Peters of 41 Munroe street.

Hazelwood street is a narrow suburban street, according to the engineers' report, with a 23-foot roadway and carries very little traffic. There is an approximate 4% per cent grade from Townsend street toward Munroe street.

The accident which occured there (stimulating Mr. Peters' suggestion) was caused by inefficient driving of the vehicle. The engineers state that making this street one-way would inconvenience the people living on the street and in the immediate neighborhood.

GIRL QUIZZED, SEEK OTHER IN PLOT

Extortion rackets on the North Shore took on a decidedly feminine aspect today, with the girl being sought in the Walter E. Poor case in Salem, and a woman to be grilled for other alleged plots.

Joseph K. Gallo, 21, former star schoolboy athlete of Salem, was being held in $10,000 on charges of attempting to extort $1000 from Poor, wealthy Salem manufacturer

But G-men, who arrested him, have disclosed that the Poor case is only one of a dozen or more similar cases.

Today word was around that a Salem woman is to be questioned by the crack government sleuths within the next 36 hours.

At the same time, a girl with a "sweet voice" is said to have telephoned the Poor home in connection with the $1000 plot for which Gallo was arrested.

The G-men are reported to have been engaged in probing other extortion cases north of Boston when the Poor case came to their attention.

In another case, it is said, a wealthy Marblehead Neck woman has engaged four armed guards to protect her.

In another, a dozen G-men are reported to have interviewed a Salem lawyer in connection with threats made to one of his clients.

Gallo's young wife, a mother of two weeks, today reiterated her belief in his innocence. She declared:

"I love him and I am going to stand by him. They have nothing to prove he was involved in this terrible thing.

"I can't believe it and I won't. Why, he came to visit me regularly when I was in the hospital. He couldn't have been engaged in what the officials say he was at the same time."

Mrs. Gallo is the former Helen Barna, Peabody high school basketball player. She is staying at the home of Gallo's father in Salem.

PRES. KAPLAN REP. FINKLESTEIN

"Take me out to the ball game"—President Charles Kaplan of Ward 14 Democratic Club and Representative Finklestein were snapped waving "So long, gang" to 2000 youngsters from Roxbury, Dorchester, and Mattapan, who were sent by the club in buses to the ball game at Braves Field through the courtesy of Judge Emil Fuchs who relinquished control of the club yesterday. A dozen members of the Democratic Club went along with the youngsters to serve as counselors. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

FLIER DIES IN FLAME

Boot Links Crash Victim to Navy

By Associated Press

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 2—Mystery today shrouded the identity of an aviator, possibly a United States Navy pilot, who, trapped in the wreckage of a single-seater fighting plane, was burned beyond recognition after a crash on lonely Kuchal mesa near Escondido.

Word was awaited from a naval board of inquiry as to whether it was George A. Reese, 33, San Diego, attached to VF-2 squadron of the Fleet Air.

He was the only local pilot unaccounted for. His ship was the type of that demolished.

Naval authorities refused to make an announcement pending investigation.

Dave Gershon, deputy coroner, said he "felt certain" the victim was Reese.

A navy boot encasing a man's leg, found by ranchers a few minutes after the craft nose-dived to the ground and then burst into flames, was the only clue to the victim's identity. The boot was discovered on a tree.

Witnesses said the pilot apparently lost control of the plane after he had brought it out of a tailspin.

RETTICH QUIZ For 2 Witnesses

Federal revenue department intelligence agents today questioned Samuel and Milton Kaufman, held in Worcester jail as material witnesses in the Rettich $125,000 Fall River mail robbery.

The men were brought, under guard, from Worcester, for questioning in the Federal building here.

The government is seeking information as to the whereabouts of $89,000 of the stolen funds.

Prosperity! Poor House Is For Sale

It's either the New Deal—or that prosperity they were talking about being just around the corner—but anyway—

Douglas, Massachusetts, hasn't the slightest use for its Town Farm (poorhouse, in the old ballads) any more.

They're going to auction it off—wood lot, stone quarry, antiques, what the poster calls "good frame woodshed" and all—on Saturday, August 10, at 10 a. m.—rain or shine.

So—if you want a first-class Colonial dwelling of 10 rooms, 16 double school desks, buggy-whips, hames, harness and all—

130 HERE FACE QUARANTINE IN PARALYSIS

Threats of quarantine issued today from the Department of Health for 130 persons under observation in the spread of infantile paralysis in Greater Boston

With six new cases reported in Boston and two from nearby towns the number has swelled to more than 30 in the metropolitan area.

Dr Frederick J Bailey, in charge of communicable diseases, made public the fact that three of those who have been under scrutiny as the result of their personal contacts with victims, have disappeared.

BOY IN CAMP

One, a young boy who said by his relatives to be in a Maine boys' camp, and Dr Bailey announced that orders would be sent to have him placed in quarantine.

Strict orders, Dr. Bailey said, had been issued to all persons under observation to remain away from public places and unless these orders are observed official quarantine will follow.

Six new cases were reported today in Roxbury and Dorchester, the seat of the present epidemic.

One case has been sent to a Boston hospital from Weymouth, and one from Brookline.

The total of cases reported in Greater Boston since July 15th is now over 30.

Children stricken today include:

Joseph Shuzrue, 5, and his 10 months' old sister, Mary, of 6 Walnutah street, Roxbury.

Donald Shire, 5, of 4 Pickering avenue, Roxbury.

Freeman Zussman, 10, of 47 Quincy street, Roxbury.

Charles A. Kuhns, 4, of 9 Westcott street, Dorchester.

Donald Linsky, 7, of 42 Rosecliff street, Dorchester.

Warren Bates, 6, of 208 Washington street, Weymouth.

Philip Castle, 2, of 63 University Road, Brookline.

Nurses from the health department are carefully seeking all persons who may have had recent contact with those stricken, and as fast as these are discovered, they are being placed under observation.

Watch Out if Child Is Languid

There are two ways in which infantile paralysis presents itself.

In 85 per cent of cases the child is languid for four or five days; there is frequently a queer temperature. Then suddenly there may be a tender spot on the second day. Or sometimes the paralysis strikes.

In about 15 per cent of cases these symptoms disappear after the second day for five days. The seventh day the symptoms again appear, and on the ninth day the paralysis sometimes the victim.

It is best combatted by the following means:

1—Call a physician at the very first appearance of any of the symptoms described. It is far better to call a doctor needlessly than to take a chance with the paralysis. If your child runs a temperature, is nauseated, or complains of a sore throat or tender neck—call a physician at once!

2—Keep your children away from crowds of all kinds.

3—DO NOT DRINK, OR ALLOW YOUR CHILDREN TO DRINK, FROM DRINKING CUPS USED BY OTHER PERSONS!

4—Keep children away from exposure to sneezes, coughs, or apparent colds!

5—Let them go bathing—yes—but NOT at crowded beaches!

LINA BASQUETTE

$100,000 'COLOR LINE'

Lina Basquette Opens Theater Suit

Lina Basquette, dark-eyed danseuse of the movies, began action in Boston today in a $100,000 suit against a New Bedford theater.

She alleges that the New Bedford Amusement Company, Inc., operators of the Empire Theatre displayed her photograph on a poster advertising their appearance of the Harlem Cotton Ball on March 9.

Miss Basquette was not engaged appearing at the theatre, she maintains, and claims that being by as a member of the ball has injured her.

Through her counsel, George S. Reagan, 73 Tremont street, federal court writs were served. Ryan said the declaration would be filed within a few days.

Miss Basquette, whose home is in Los Angeles, is now in Chicago, Ryan said.

The former Follies girl, noted for her beauty is now the wife of Teddy Hayes, former trainer and business associate of Jack Dempsey, and her manager.

She was previously the wife of Powell Marks, her stage dancing partner, and of the late Sam Warner, well-known picture magnate, who left her a $100,000 trust fund when he died. She was on several occasions reported engaged to Dempsey.

Once she was reported to have taken poison in a suicide attempt, but the "poison" turned out to be onion soup.

Auto Crash Snaps Artificial Leg

Worcester, Aug 2 Edward F Smith, Wildwood avenue, Worcester, in his city hospital suffering from a broken leg that hurt only financially. It was wooden

He is also badly shaken as the result of collision between his automobile and one operated by Carl F. S. Soder of Esther st, on Millbury st. today.

Smith has one leg amputated at the hip, and another at the knee. On the latter, his right, he wears—or wore—the wooden leg. He drove his car by means of special devices arranged for proper control.

BOSTON SLAYER Loses N. Y. Plea

White Plains, N. Y. Aug. 2 (INS)—Supreme Court Justice George H Taylor Jr. here today dismissed the application for a writ of habeas corpus made by Charles E. Folsom, Jr., of Boston, who is serving a 20-year to life sentence in Sing Sing for second degree murder and an additional five to 10 years for using a dangerous weapon in commission of a felony.

Folsom said he had pleaded guilty only to the murder charge and that the additional sentence was illegally imposed. Justice Taylor said Folsom should make a new application after he has served the sentence of 20 years to life.

AUSTEN LAKE

Fuchs in Solitary Farewell From Braves Field

THE CEREMONY OF Judge Emil Fuchs' passing was simple, at contrast with the grandeur of his arrival 12 years ago. There had been hampers of hot house flowers then, and the dingy Braves office was smothered in posie perfumes.

Austen Lake

The judge had worn a morning coat with braid on the lapels and striped trousers, and though he only had $25,000 of his own personal money in the club, he bore himself with a senatorial air and had a warm, clinging handclasp for everybody.

But when he departed after the ball game last night with a haggard look and, after leaving directions for the disposal of his few personal gadgets, hung his stick on an arm and tramped into the twilight.

There were no hangers-on to sing him on his way with the strains of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." The hundreds who had eaten his banquets, sipped his stimulants, and chanted love themes, did not bother to mourn his last retreat.

No Mourners Gather

IN HIS MANIA FOR ENTERTAINMENT he had spent the club's money on mob feasts for the newsmen and political acquaintances, and loved to rise in the company of his guests to drop after-dinner gems and single out everybody by name as sweet characters with a sterling loyalty.

But in the end the only loyalists who jerked their forelocks as he passed were a band of ticket vendors waiting their payoff.

It is a melancholy thought that we will no longer see him squat like a mantelpiece mandarin, blowing a cigar to a red glow, while his hired athletes perform on the field.

He colored the game's literature as a gypsy trader and operated his club like a child with a Christmas toy.

So he clumped down the rickety staircase, feeling the steps with his feet and showing the sag of embittered disillusionment. And finally he lurched heavily into a waiting taxi and rolled from the narrow street where thousands used to storm his gates.

Only a belated peanut vendor, counting his profits, watched as he became a legend.

Hardrock's Grandma

AMERICAN LEAGUERS CALL Wesley Ferrell, Red Sox pitcher and slugger, the "Hardrock," because of his cold-blooded attitude toward opposing batsmen.

Once Jimmy Dykes, White Sox manager, said in his hearing, "I'll bet he'd knock his grandmother down if she came to bat in the pinch."

And Wes replied gravely, "No. But I might drive her back a little, and I wouldn't give her a good ball to hit."

Louis; Lethal Druggist

WITH A PRIZE FIGHTER'S weakness for alibis, Primo Carnera reports by cable that he was drugged before his bout with Joe Louis. He says, "I felt everything going foggy. My legs trembled and the ring began to whirl."

I can testify to the truth of this statement. Only, what Primo mistook for poison in the family soup kettle was nothing more than a stiff right-hand jolt to his thorax and a left cross to the chin.

A succession of thumps like Louis handed out have a tendency to make things go foggy and unjoint the knees just as much as a tablespoon of strychnine in a mug of oatmeal broth.

Pitchers' Folly

IT IS A HISTORIC ODDITY that pitchers do not make competent major league managers. Christy Mathewson failed at Cincinnati, Bob Shawkey flunked with the New York Yankees, and Walter Johnson, after fumbling with the Washington Senators, is about to be blasted out at Cleveland.

I once asked Johnson why this was so, and although the question was impertinently personal, he answered patiently:

"Pitchers ought to make the best managers.

"They have plenty of time to sit in the dugout and study play on the field. They know all the baseball percentages, including weaknesses of opposing batters and their tendency to hit in certain areas."

Yet, where pitchers fail, strangely enough catchers have succeeded. The ranks of major league managers have been filled by backstops more than any other position, except possibly third base. Joe McCarthy, Connie Mack, Mickey Cochrane being among the current crop.

Telephone Fakers

THERE ARE FULLY a half-dozen telephone tipsters' offices operating in Boston at the moment, come-on hideaways in downtown lofts where the moocher hires a telephone and a typewriter and furnishes his office with a packing case desk.

These tipsters drum up a sucker trade by offering to furnish sure-fire leads for a 25 per cent cut of the winnings, sprinkling their selections over the most likely horses in any one race and always sure of a share in several clients' earnings.

These dopesters are usually one or two race men, who hand out their "daily best bet," thus insuring confidence among the lucky patrons, who enlist friends in what, momentarily, seems a good thing.

One of these moochers, who operates from a Hanover street building, recently gave away four different horses in the same race to individual clients as his "daily feature."

Sharkey Keeps Fit

JACK SHARKEY SPENDS TWO or three afternoons a week doing light training to keep down the layers of lard that accumulate swiftly on retired fighters.

Though he snorts denials at the thought of a comeback, there is a vague chance that he will consent to a five-round exhibition go with the big pillow mittens against Jimmy Braddock during the winter as a semi-charity gesture.

Fate of Braves Rest With Result of This Conference

BILL McKECHNIE CHARLES F. ADAMS ATTY. LEO BONDY PRESIDENT FORD FRICK

President Ford Frick of the National League hustled over from New York today to discuss the Braves' situation with Charles F. Adams, who became boss of the franchise when Judge Emil E. Fuchs resigned. Bill McKechnie, Tribal pilot, was called in. It is expected that McKechnie will be named business manager. Adams was expected to decide during the "confab" whether he would try to sell the club or run it himself. Leo J. Bondy, attorney representing the National League, was also present.

Adams, Frick, McKechnie Parley on Tribe Plans

By Joe Cashman

Charles F. Adams, new president of the Boston Braves, went into conference this morning at his Milk street office with President Ford Frick of the National League.

Also present at the meeting were Frick's advisor and companion, Leo Bondy, prominent New York attorney, and Manager Bill McKechnie of the Braves. It is expected that the conference will last until early evening.

It was expected that Adams would take advantage of this opportunity to present his plans for the Braves to Frick. Possibly some definite action will be taken, since it is generally believed that Adams is not interested in maintaining leadership over the National League team.

Frick was immediately questioned as soon as he arrived in town as to just what the reaction of the National League would be in regard to Adams also owning a race track. Frick's answer was:

"The league will not take issue on this subject, and I tis all right with them."

When further queried over the league's attitude in regard to Stoneham and McGraw being involved in racing which resulted in their being forced to give up their race track holdings, Frick came right back and retorted:

"That was a different situation. Stoneham and McGraw were just established in baseball and then stepped into racing. Adams, on the other hand, was just a shareholder and then suddenly found himself with a ball club dumped in his lap."

"The next move is up to Mr. Adams."

That was Judge Fuchs' swang song. And, in a nutshell, it aptly described the Braves situation today.

Adams today had Fuchs' resignation in writing. He can collect the judge a stock any time and anywhere he wishes.

In short, the Tribal franchise is now his to do with as he pleases.

So far, the new boss has declined to shed any light on his plans.

The Warriors were in New York today.

BOB QUINN

Bob Quinn, former Red Sox "jinxy," who was erroneously reported as having been in Boston, wiring from his desk in the Brooklyn front office, said he knew nothing of the local situation. He said he had never received any offers to come to the Wigwam as baseball manager.

The office, ground and gate employes at the Tepee are still carrying on as though nothing had happened.

Adams can take his time about making any changes or announcements probably because there is no need for him to hurry. The club won't be home again for ten days.

Before then, there's a chance that a new owner will appear on the scene.

Judge Fuchs issued no statement as he stepped out after 12 years at the helm in Allston except to announce he had written and mailed his letter of resignation.

He wrote the letter in long hand, he said, and kept no copy.

"I'm going back to my office on Beacon street and will devote my future to the practice of law," he stated.

"I'll be available and ready to fulfill all the obligations of contracts whenever Mr. Adams gives the word."

Calling the players together before they took the field for the final game against Brooklyn, the Judge expressed regret over leaving them, told them they had nothing to worry about, urged that they be loyal to their new bosses and wished them the best of luck.

LOSE TO ROBINS

The athletes shook hands with him and then raced out to take a 4-2 licking from the Dodgers, led by Old Tom Zachary, who southpawed the Braves to many victories before he was lagged "all through" and shipped to Brooklyn at the start of last season.

Fuchs held hope almost to the last minute that he might uncover somebody to buy his share in the club. He waited all morning to hear from a certain group.

When he heard nothing by noon, he sat down and, with a few strokes of the pen, severed his long connection with Boston baseball.

CORIA Public Golf CHOICE

By Associated Press

Indianapolis, Aug. 2 Joe Coria, 24-year-old St. Paul pienic grounds policeman, took over the role of favorite today as the semi-final round of the national public links golf championship was reached.

The blonde Minnesotan, a semi finalist in 1934 also, was pitted in a 36-hole match over the champion ship Coffin course today against another middle westerner, Bill Russell.

Two shotmakers from opposite sides of the continent, the oldest and youngest survivors, met in the other semi-final match.

Robert Tomes, 34-year-old Long Beach, Calif., carpenter, fresh from his victory over Arthur Armstrong of Honolulu, the 1934 runner-up, tackled Frank Strafaci Brooklyn High School student still in his teens.

Strafaci holds the Metropolitan junior title and eliminated from the tournament Mitchell's conqueror Charles Amandoles of Staten Island, N. Y.

Coria showed the brilliance of his game by defeating Lieut. Ken Rogers, San Antonio, Texas army flyer, 2 and 1, and Wesley Cosper Louisville, Ky., 5 and 3. For the 32 holes he had to play Joe was but three strokes over par on the hazardous Coffin course.

RUSSELL DIES, Regatta Off

Middletown Ct., Aug. 2 Out of respect to Commodore Thomas Macdonough Russell, who died at his home here Tuesday, the officials of the Middletown Yacht Club announced today the cancellation of the annual regatta scheduled for September 7 and 8. The regatta series will be resumed next year, it was stated.

Funeral services, attended by yachtsmen of prominence from several Eastern cities, were held here today.

Lynch Enters N. E. Golf Quarterfinal

RAY LENAHAN WINS OVER CLARE

By Bill Grimes

New England Amateur Championship Quarter Finals

A. Vellis, The Country Club vs. J. P. Lynch, Blue Hill.

E. H. Peertzon, Oakley vs. H. H. Mandly, Wethersfield, Ct.

Ray Lenahan, Metacomet vs. Edward Martin, Sandy Burr.

Anthony Kosinski, Greenfield, Ct., vs. Wilfred Crossley, Norfolk.

Worcester, Aug. 2—Three extra hole matches featured the fourth round of the 10th annual New England amateur championship this morning at the Worcester Country club and one of them marked the end of the defending champion, Charlie Clare, Orange, Conn.

Ray Lenahan, Metacomet, stole the show this morning by beating Clare in a 20-hole match.

Wilfred Crossley accomplished a rare feat, that of eliminating Freddie Wright at the 19th hole, while New Peterson broke up the Martin twins by defeating Leo at the first extra hole.

LYNCH WINS

Allan V. Ellis, the Country Club, put out Wilfred Girard, the junior champion of Maine, 4 and 2, and Joe Lynch beat L. A. McGowan, Metacomet, 4 and 3, while Eddie Martin took the measure of Francis Doyle, Wachusett, by a 4 and 3 margin.

Harold Mandly, Wethersfield, Ct., ruined Tommy Tailer's chances of going through to the quarter finals by beating the young millionaire from Newport 3 and 1 and Tony Kosinski, Greenfield Hills, Ct., did a neat job on Bernie Corcoran, Oyster Harbors, by defeating the Georgetown boy 4 and 2.

Ellis was obliged to bear down to get through Girard. The Pine Tree State youngster was only one down at the turn and well on his way to square the match at the 12th, where Ellis put his second shot over the green. The green had just been watered and there was a pool on the putting surface. Girard's chip ran into the water and stopped dead and the nine needed three putts to get down losing the hole to a 5 to be down instead of all square.

Girard's loss at the 11th offset the two minutes he had Ellis going out. At the third hole Ellis was stopped from a win by a stymie and then lost the seventh when Girard's putt came to rest directly in line with his putt for a halve.

Worcester Golf Summary

A. Vellis, Mass., defeated W. G. Girard, Maine, 4 and 2.

FIFTY GIRLS IN HARVARD REGATTA

A bevy of girls from many sections of the United States, most of them enrolled at the Harvard Summer School, will compete this afternoon in the finals of the Weld Boat Club and Harvard Summer School crew regatta which starts at 2 p. m. off the float of the Weld Boat house on the Charles River.

More than 50 girls will test their watermanship in crew races, with wherry, broad and narrow comp races, novice single sculling, and other events providing the test of oarsmanship for the pretty Harvard co-eds.

The men will also have events, and many prominent Harvard men are entered in the various crew tests, but it is the women's events about which will be focused the major share of spectator interest.

Helena Baille, pretty Cambridge miss, is favored to capture the rowing honors in the women's narrow comp race, but Miss Mount of Montclair, N. J., may have something to say about this.

Barbara May, prominent local swimmer, is the outstanding entry in the race for the senior singles title, and in the novice women's single race it looks as though Ruth Hetherston of Newton Center has shown the greatest progress.

Henry and Slim Holm slugged for all they were worth in the preliminaries of the Maritime championships here but when they found they both were in the final they unlaced their gloves and refused to fight. The title then was left open.

Time Supply Tops in Suffolk 'Cap

By Dave Wilson
Selections Made for Fast Track
BEST BET—LITTLE DINAH, 4TH RACE

Suffolk Downs, Aug. 2—Time Supply, one of the top handicap performers of the year, heads the brilliant field in the first running of the $5000 Puritan Handicap, at one mile and a sixteenth, piece de resistance of a splendid eight-race card at East Boston's magnificent race course, tomorrow.

Twelve have been named overnight to compete for honors and the race shapes up one of the most enticing attractions of the New England season thus far. Ladfield, going great guns here, looms as the main contender, with Ebony Lady, Purple Knight and Howard all coming on for strong support.

Little Dinah, second to Treasury Key in her last performance appears an almost sure thing in the fourth, at three-quarters. This filly is as sharp as a razor at present and needs only to run back to her last to make the accounting.

FIRST RACE—CONCHITA, ALWINTOUR, GOLD STEP

FIRST RACE—The Longwood, three-year-olds and up, claiming, $1000, six furlongs.

PP	Horse	Wt.	Jockey	P. Odds	Comment
4	Conchita	x106	Howell	5-1	Good form, in light
13	Alwintour	109	Allen	2-1	Just missed last time
1	Gold Step	113	Legere	7-1	Won last, poor post
6	Alle Valera	111	Winters	8-1	Last race helped
14	On Our Way	108	Winters	8-1	Last race below standard
16	x Mark Bennett	111	Winters	8-1	Chance if started
10	Metaxes	114	Mann	12-1	Improved last time
3	x Mr. Pete	109	Wagner	15-1	May need a race
8	Helios	114	McGovern	15-1	The dark horse, look out
9	Jills Pilot	x105	L. Hanford	15-1	Improvement needed
11	Silver Rob	x103	Skimmer	15-1	Speedy at times
7	Ghosts Ire	x109	Thornton	15-1	No recent line
12	x Pointer Marble	111	C. Hanford	15-1	Stronger, no works
15	Coin	108	Wall	20-1	Nothing recently
5	Redtape	109	Sage	20-1	Some fair races
2	Bobbie Hinton	x101	Stafford	20-1	Last very poor
10	Star Queen	109	Terschluit	20-1	Just in from the sticks
12	Golden Effort	x104	Reid	30-1	Works fairly well

x—R. N. Bonsal entry. 6-9, 6-5, Morton entry.

CONCHITA, a strong backed choice in her last outing, was given a miserable ride by Stevenson. In front of that she beat a good field in a well-run race. As the field in the opening six furlongs is one of little merit, I believe the daughter of Sasan will come back this band with the utmost of ease. ALWINTOUR, nosed out by Gold Step in her last, will have a three-pound weight shift in his favor and breaks from a good position on the outside. GOLD STEP is as good as his last, but will be forced to break from the extreme inside.

SECOND RACE—CASH BOOK, FESTOON, NARISE

SECOND RACE—The Soldiers Field, claiming, $1000, two-year-olds, five furlongs.

6	Cash Book	101	Howell	3-2	Best effort needed
4	Festoon	x102	L. Hanford	7-2	Class, dropping down
3	Narise	113	Skelton	4-1	Dangerous on best races
2	Broadsetter	106	Wagner	6-1	Improved last time
5	Pretty Bunny	111	Winters	8-1	Quit last trip
1	Genial Lena	106	C. Hanford	12-1	Speedy maiden
7	Blind Tally	106	McLaughlin	20-1	Usually quits

CASH BOOK should smother her company with speed in this affair. At this abbreviated distance she figures to never lose the lead. All recent endeavors have been excellent. FESTOON'S last campaigning with better opposition but breaks slowly. NARISE, beaten favorite last out, raced in dull fashion, but off her previous victory she appears third best. This is the race.

THIRD RACE—DARK VIVE, HIGH FLAG, CLAIMANT

THIRD RACE—The Beaver, three-year-olds, claiming, $1000, one mile.

3	Dark Vive	112	Wagner	2-1	The class, no edge
4	High Flag	x100	Deering	5-1	Weight off, likes route
6	Claimant	x100	L. Hanford	6-1	Won at six furlongs
1	Tess Charm	x100	Thornton	8-1	Should go well
2	Bull Market	x105	Howell	8-1	Loss at times
5	Vaucrom	103	Knapp	15-1	May wake up
7	Toys Betty	103	Reid	30-1	Dropping down

DARK VIVE should take the measure of the small field in this mile test. Stepped a mile in 1 41 the other morning in her final prep for this. HIGH FLAG should appreciate this distance better than her last sprint attempt. Will have 11 pounds less to pack and her last should have put her on sharpest edge. She is strictly the one to down. CLAIMANT best little in her last winning performance, but that performance stamps her as a formidable rival.

FOURTH RACE—LITTLE DINAH, DARK ZENI, PLAYMORE

FOURTH RACE—The Braves, three-year-olds, claiming, $1000, one mile.

2	Little Dinah	107	Wagner	2-1	The day's best bet
3	Dark Zeni	112	Howath	3-1	Real good weight off
8	Playmore	x103	Skimmer	8-1	Freshened up, fast works
7	High Delight	103	McGovern	8-1	Hung on nicely last time
4	Sun Erin	x102	Howell	8-1	Improvement needed
1	Single Reason	110	Reid	10-1	Has had many chances
5	Alle Ward	105	Heinz	20-1	Stables wakes them up
6	Miss Ulleme	103	C. Hanford	30-1	Some fair races

If anything beats LITTLE DINAH, it will likely be DARK ZENI. The latter ran third to Chewawa and Light Brook the other day and drops four pounds from that effort. In front of that she turned in another good endeavor to Jubilargo. This is the one to fear. PLAYMORE rested up turned five-eighths in 1:01 for this affair. May go well here.

FIFTH—PRIMUTE, INTEGRITY, JUST FUN

FIFTH RACE—The Parker House, claiming, $1000, four-year-olds and up, 1 1-16 miles.

6	Primute	x104	Skimmer	5-2	Best in open race
1	Integrity	116	Wall	3-1	Deubled this way
4	Just Fun	x108	L. Hanford	5-2	Won last two in hand
3	Viking Dare	x108	Reid	5-1	Dark horse, look out
2	Intrastreet	x108	L. Hanford	6-1	Should go well
5	Star Fire	104	Howell	12-1	Fast form, fast workouts

PRIMUTE always right up there or thereabouts is the only logical choice in this mile and a sixteenth number. She favors this distance and under 104 pounds looks over the winner. INTEGRITY nosed out the top mare in their last meeting, but must take up 116 pounds. JUST FUN is coming off a mile and a quarter performance may be along in time for the show award. He was claimed out of his last start.

SIXTH—TIME SUPPLY, LADFIELD, PURPLE KNIGHT

SIXTH RACE—The Puritan Handicap, three-year-olds and up, $5000 added, 1 1-16 miles.

11	Time Supply	x119	Luther	5-2	Best horse, repeated ready
1	Ladfield	118	Legere	4-1	Main danger, never better
12	Purple Knight	108	Brooks	4-1	Worked mile in 1:40
9	Second Harvest	108	Winters	5-1	Fighting chance
7	Quarterly	103	Knapp	6-1	Vastly improved sister
5	Ebony Lady	107	Wall	6-1	May take it all
3	Hardware	102	Skimmer	12-1	In under a feather
2	Howard	102	Mann	12-1	Wants longer route
10	Jefferson Brook	105	Mazur	20-1	Wants sprints
8	Legionary	102	Heinz	20-1	Run at Empire
6	Up and Up	98	Sage	20-1	Has gone back
4	Nobody Dell	x101	C. Hanford	20-1	Wants cheaper company

x—C. L. Hamilton and W. S. Jones entry. 2—5, 6, Vanderbilt entry.

It is impossible to go further than TIME SUPPLY in seeking the victor of the Puritan. The Carreaud star has been going like a house afire in training over at Narragansett for this engagement. His rivals' outclasses this field, and it seems just a question of the son of Time Maker being in prime condition. LADFIELD, greatly improved racer, has displayed brilliant form over this course and is a hard-hitting fellow. This distance suits him admirably. PURPLE KNIGHT, winner of the Revere Stakes, went a mile in 1:40 for this stake in his most recent work. Will take plenty of beating on present form.

SEVENTH—BEDIGHT, TREASURY KEY, GREAT LOVER

SEVENTH RACE—The Red Fox, claiming, $1000, 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs

2	Bedight	114	Wall	2-1	The Class, well placed
7	Treasury Key	x101	L. Hanford	3-1	Contender, in great form
3	Great Lover	x108	Howell	4-1	Worked in 1:10, pulled up
5	Fake	x101	Skimmer	6-1	Outside chance
6	Best Buster	108	Wagner	8-1	Must avoid help
4	Dante	x107	Thornton	15-1	Some fair races
1	Chatterlol	111	Mann	15-1	In good form
8	Hogan's Fox	x108	Thornton	20-1	Hard to guess
9	Mr. Bow	108	Reid	30-1	Wants cheaper company

BEDIGHT outclasses the sprinters here. He holds the foot to take an early lead and under his light impost of 114 pounds, should never leave the issue in doubt against a field of sprinters. TREASURY KEY won her last in game style over the mile route. Coming back in a sprint, the route race may have taken an edge off her speed. GREAT LOVER, second to Treasury Key last out was beaten into first place when the latter was disqualified. He is in here nicely under 104 pounds and will be right there on present stuff.

EIGHTH RACE—HERKIMER, FREE, MATHIAS

EIGHTH RACE—The Bruins, claiming, $1000, 3-year-olds and up, mile and 70 yards.

2	Herkimer	118	Wagner	4-1	May be the right one
3	Free	111	Reid	4-1	Runs good when fresh
1	Mathias	x111	Howell	4-1	Improved last trip
8	Carsono	x111	Skimmer	5-1	Dropping down, chance
7	Fauxe Frolic	111	Wall	5-1	Should go well
6	Tightwad	x108	L. Hanford	8-1	May beat this rating
5	Height Meteor	x106	Thornton	8-1	One excellent race
4	Tristrop	x108	Stafford	20-1	Crying for "Bull Rings"
9	Zeiss	113	Heinz	30-1	Away long time

HERKIMER is dropped down in the right spot here. Was pitted too ambitiously in his last appearance to Prince Pompey, but on his previous performance should take down the heavy money. Wagner will do the kicking. FREE displayed little in his last but has been freshened up and should improve. MATHIAS and CARSONO may battle it out for show money.

GREYHOUND ACE IN HAMBLETONIAN

By ED COGSWELL

Rockingham Park, Salem, N. H., Aug. 2—Greyhound, favorite for the classic $40,000 Hambletonian stake, did much to discourage his backers in his latest fast workout in preparation for the rich event.

Trainer Sep Palin had the gelded son of Guy Abbey-Elizabeth in company with the pacer, Cardinal Prince.

In the first fast mile the three-year-old made a couple of breaks when scoring, and then went away flat and good, marching off the distances in 2 06, last half in 1 01, the final two furlongs in 1?4 seconds.

This was all to the honey, but it was a far different story in the repeat mile. Time after time Greyhound slopped over into running breaks after turning for the word, despite every effort of Palin to keep him on his stride.

Finally, he went off on a trot, but entering the first turn went to a bad break, only to repeat the operation in the backstretch. Palin was then content to finish the mile in slow time.

The bad behavior of Greyhound has caused many here to believe that he has far from won the Hambletonian, but that several in the field are very liable to become the winning factor on the day of the big race.

Foremost of these named is the filly Tilly Tonka, in the stable of Fred Egan, who was a close second to Greyhound in 2 02¼ at Toronto. It is certain that he must be in his best manners to defeat her.

The result of the American stake to be decided here tomorrow will do much in picking out the one most capable of handing Greyhound a beating at Goshen, N. Y.

One that set all of the rubbers twittering was when Trainer Vic Fleming turned the sensational pacing mare Calumet Evelyn around and set her down for a mile in 2 07, the last quarter in 30 seconds. This is the trot.

In accomplishing this remarkable feat, Fleming never had to alter a shoe, checkrein nor boots, the mare being rigged exactly as when pacing.

When through cleaning up all of the pacers in the free-for-all classes, Calumet Evelyn is a brilliant prospect for all of the big trotting stakes in the Grand Circuit.

Among the latest arrivals here were Starting Judge Steve Phillips, sailing from Xenia, O., and Joe McGraw, racing secretary and presiding steward.

Word comes from Concord that Ralph Seavey, Rochester, will represent the New Hampshire commission here as steward.

Phillips brought the good word that all of the previous meetings in the Grand Circuit this year have shown a handsome profit. Paul Bowser is just as sure that the meeting at Rockingham will do the same.

Through Bowser the New England lovers of the light harness horse have the opportunity of seeing the best trotters and pacers on the turf, while driving them in the races are the noted knights of the sulky, always prominent in the public eye.

With so many two-year-olds on the grounds it has been suggested that three overnight events be held for that class, each claiming races. One could be for a claiming price of $800 for youngsters capable of trotting around 2.12, another for a $1200 price for ones in 2.10, and a top and bottom for $3000-$2500 for the slick colts with ability to go out and march of heats in 2:08 and faster

WRIGHT'S SWING HANDICAPS HIM

ONE OF BEST, OTHERWISE

By Bill Grimes

"If somebody had taught him an orthodox swing when he was a youngster, Freddie Wright would have been another Hagen," declared Willie Ogg, the Worcester Country Club professional. . . .

"Any player who could go as far as Freddie has with that loop in his swing would have been a world champion if he'd been started right."

Freddie has been spraying shots around the Worcester Country Club for a couple of rounds, but he's still in the running for the New England amateur championship . . .

After beating Dick Lunn in an extra hole third-round match, Jack Harte announced, "Harte, one up at the 19th, after playing 400 shots."

. . . Harte, who is a southpaw, is more proficient in a swimming pool than on the links . . . He is a member of the Yale swimming team and a champion . . .

Just as soon as one of the Martin twins win a match at Worcester, the early finisher rushes out to see how the other is going . . . They were hitting on high yesterday and are liable to be troublesome today . . . Leo is playing Ned Peterson, for whom he caddied on many occasions at Oakley, while Eddie is out with Francis "Ancy" Doyle, playing before the largest gallery . . .

Although Joe Lynch carded four consecutive birdies in the third round, Larry Dussling, his opponent, declared he did not sink a real putt . . . Joe holed a four-footer at the 4th for a deuce, a two for a four at the 5th, one of not more than six feet at the 6th, for another deuce and a two footer for a three at the 7th . . . Joe is very anxious to get a crack at Tommy Tailer, Newport, R. I., in the semi-finals . . . Tommy has beaten Joe in a couple of championships, and the Blue Hill boy is anxious to get the Newport millionaire to chase some of his tee shots at Worcester.

So as to avoid a confliction with the Country Club of New Bedford invitation, the annual Father and Son two day tournament at Winchester was advanced to start on Tuesday instead of Wednesday . . . There's no tournament on the M. G. A. list that enjoys the popularity of the New Bedford invitation, which is restricted to 128 entries . . .

Wilfred Girard, the junior champion of Maine, knew he was going places in the New Englands just as soon as he got by Bill Whitcomb . . . Prior to this match, Whitcomb took the Poland Springs boy into the club house and called his attention to the past Worcester Country Club champions . . . Right there, Guy Wilton errored for Girard was so impressed with our Will's past performances that he went out, bore down and came up with a 8 and 7 victory . . . Golf is a costly pastime when you pay four bucks to play eleven holes . . .

After his brother Charlie had lost a 19-hole match to Ralph Rooks, Judge James C. Donnelly, who is about an 8 handicap player, offered to give him a lesson . . .

Your entry must reach the "Daily Double" Handicap Game Editor of the Boston American, P. O. Box 1946, or deliver to 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, not later than 1 P. M., Saturday, August 3.

Here are the Rules:

To play the "Daily Double" Game name the horses you think will win the first and third races at Suffolk Downs. Then place the names of the horses you believe will run second and third in each of the two races.

20 pairs of tickets to the Suffolk Downs Races will be given each day to winners.

Winners will be picked under the following rules:

Entries that pick the "Daily Double" will be given first consideration. Should there be fewer "Daily Double" winners than there are prizes, winners of the remaining tickets will be scored as follows: First counts 8 points, second counts 4 points, and third counts 2 points in each of the two races. The entries scoring the largest number of points will be declared the winners.

In the event there are more "Daily Double" winners than there are prizes, the prizes will be given to the "Daily Double" winners who score the largest number of points in selecting the horses that run second and third in the first and third races. In scoring these winners the following rules will be observed: Place counts 4 points and show 2 points for each race. Tied contestants will each receive a ticket.

In the event any of the horses you pick are scratched, the next horse will be automatically moved up one space on your list. For example, should your first choice fail to start, the second horse named becomes your first choice and the third horse your second choice.

Except where horses are scratched, your selections must run in the order in which you list them on your entry blank in order to be counted. ONLY THE NAME OF ONE HORSE MAY BE SELECTED WHERE THE HORSES ARE COUPLED IN BETTING, AS IN ENTRIES AND FIELDS. The decision of the judges will be final and no entries returned.

A coupon for Monday's "Daily Double" selections will be printed Saturday.

Each day's winners will be printed in all editions of the Boston Evening American the day after the races are run (Saturday's winners in Monday's editions).

Mr. Boston

20,000 to See Harness Opener

By JACK CONWAY

SPEAKING of news: Paul Bowser looks for a crowd of 20,000 and a mutuel handle of $200,000 at the opening day of the Grand Circuit races at Rockingham Park tomorrow afternoon.

The Grand Circuit has staged a remarkable come back this year. It has been drawing record crowds, and it is expected that the meeting at Rockingham will also be successful.

Mr. Boston

Steve G. Phillips, famous starter, will be on the job at Rockingham. Joseph M. McGraw, racing secretary, will also act as presiding steward. Ralph Seavey will be the stewards representing the New Hampshire Racing Commission.

Some of the world's leading trotters will compete in the American Stake on Saturday.

W. N. Reynolds, the tobacco king, has his stable of trotters and pacers at Rockingham.

Allan Wilson, general manager of Suffolk Downs, is co-operating with Paul Bowser in staging the Rockingham meeting. Wilson was in charge of the Grand Circuit races at Rockingham a year ago, and did much to popularize this style of racing.

AZUCAR

FRED ALGER, JR., who visited Suffolk Downs to see Nedvive run, tells me he would like to show the great Azucar at the East Boston track in the fall.

Alger likes the way racing is being conducted in Massachusetts, and plans to send more horses here.

Alger, like Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, is air minded. He hopped from Saratoga to Suffolk Downs by plane and returned to Saratoga by the airways immediately after the last race.

Vanderbilt is the most sought after person at Saratoga, according to Judge Frank J. Bryan.

Judge Bryan is sitting in as a steward at Saratoga, and called Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., on the telephone to keep check on the progress of racing at Suffolk Downs. Judge Bryan is expected to return to the East Boston track next week.

Harry Morrissey, who has started most of the races at Narragansett Park, is recovering from an illness which, for a time, had him confined to the hospital.

I talked with Harry at Suffolk Downs today, and he says he is looking forward to the next meeting at Narragansett Park which opens on August 12.

MONDT ILL

TOOTS Mondt, former wrestler and now a promoter, is ill at the Copley Plaza Hotel. Toots flew East from Los Angeles in an effort to O'Mahoney-George bout, but was taken ill upon his arrival here and was unable to see the Irishman with the little.

Mondt was operated upon in Los Angeles two months ago for a kidney condition, and the long hop across the country didn't do him any good.

Mondt has responded to treatment and expects to be able to leave for New York in a few days.

Jack McGrath tells me he has signed Dan O'Mahoney to meet "Jumping" Joe Savoldi in a finish bout at Washington on next Tuesday night.

O'Mahoney will drive a trotter in a special race against a horse driven by the famous Walter Cox at Rockingham Park next Monday afternoon. Danno says he drove race horses in Ireland.

Moving pictures of the George-O'Mahoney bout indicate that Jimmy Braddock counted the Irishman out when the latter was knocked from the ring for the second time.

GEORGE'S STAND

GEORGE continues to refuse to surrender his $10,000 diamond studded championship belt to O'Mahoney. He insists he is still champion.

Regardless of any justice there may be to George's protest against the decision of Referee Braddock, he is nevertheless a former champion. The referee's decision is final.

George should have been compelled to put up his belt before the bout. Then there wouldn't have been the present controversy. O'Mahoney would have been given the belt after he received the decision.

Fast Work TUNE UP For CLASSIC

STARS TO RACE ON CHARLES

By Ed Schriftgiesser

Departing today for Winthrop, Mr. Sea, a little group of outboard motor boat enthusiasts who will take part in the Lake Maranacook regatta there tomorrow afternoon.

For many of the drivers the Maine race will serve as a final tune-up for the Eastern regatta to be held on the Charles River Basin on August 10 and 11 under the auspices of the Boston Evening American and Sea and Shore.

Young Clair Ferguson, Waban schoolboy driver, has an additional incentive. He was hoping to retire the Woolworth trophy, handsome silver cup on which he already has won two legs.

Should Ferguson fail to get his third win in the regular scheduled races tomorrow, the contests will be continued until it is finally won, as it has been decided to wind up award for the cup following the death of its donor.

Other local drivers who are going to Lake Maranacook include Bob Flagg, from Humarock; Marshall Eldredge of Weymouth, and Carl Wheeler of Chestnut Hill.

Monday will bring the final week of preparations for the big Boston races. By that time the course will be laid out, the prizes bought and the judges' stand on the bank of the Charles in the process of construction.

Surveying the course has given Frank Wiggleswer in Carl Ljnberg and other officials of the Central New England Regatta Association plenty of headaches this week.

The problem has been to provide turns wide enough for the huge field that is expected, and still allow plenty of room at the two bridges so that will narrow won't go crashing into the piers.

As finally prepared by Metropolitan District commission engineers the course will have a good straightway down the Boston side, 500 feet from the pier head, and will clear the Cambridge side of the river with space enough to leave a channel for regular boat traffic.

Kingfish and Co. Concentrating On Body Attack to Defeat Louis

Chicagoan Is Taking His Preps Seriously For First Time

By Hype Igoe

Chicago, Aug. 2—For the first time in his life, Kingfish Levinsky is serious-minded.

He thinks he can whip Joe Louis and is going to die trying to do that little thing. He bases his hopes on the fact that he once saw a sparring partner knock Joe stiff in a gymnasium bout.

The King didn't have much respect for the fellow who scored the kayo and, because of that, he is positive that he can do far much better.

He makes allowances for a decided improvement in Joe's all-around technique as a fighter since that unhappy day.

Nothing in the way of the fawny stuff can be expected of the Kingfish. He makes no attempt to box in the orthodox way. He depends on his speed and his whoop-de-do smashing for head and body to win.

Max Baer is the only man ever to knock him out. He gave Baer plenty of dickens in the first fifteen he was smacked down in the second round.

The King maintains that no such catastrophic clout was coming to him as at the time he was looking toward Leaping Lena, his sister and general boss.

On his lips were the words:

"See what a brave boy am I," when Mister Baer's dynamite train arrived and blasted the brave Kingfish into a state of unconsciousness which lasted for close on to an hour.

Outside of that mishap the King never has been planted among the daisies of any ring, and he has tied many roped arenas.

He's "cute," "tricky" beyond measure. He brings them from deepest Africa when he does land, and three smart boxers were floored by him.

Tommy Loughran landed in a grotesque position and so did Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker.

There are three men hard to fool with a punch, but the King did it, and there were many wagers made today that he would, at some time in the coming fight, flatten Mr. Joe.

He may not keep Joe down. The Bomber has proved that he can get up and keep on doing so under terrific punching.

He got up one night as an amateur seven times and whipped his man. That makes him eligible for the courage stakes.

The whispering which is going about concerning his being able to "take it," therefore, is a little uncalled for.

If ever he is whipped, yes knocked out, I think Max Baer, in condition, will be the man to do it. Max can give and can take, especially the latter.

Max Schmeling popped him with a pippin right-hander in the first round of their fight and Baer laughed in his face.

Again, in the sixth or seventh, he got it with a right and once more he tittered in the German's face.

In this respect he is on a parity with Jack Dempsey. They certainly have jaws of chilled steel. Such a man might discourage a youngster like Louis.

Baer has a loose, easy-going style and he is not nearly so easy to hit as critics will have you believe.

With his mind made up to fight and regain his lost prestige, Max Baer is going to be a tough hombre. The King also is hard to hit.

The Kingfish is not a killer. He can jolly well tickle your ribs and chin when he cuts loose, but he doesn't hit them hard enough to snap the shoe laces.

When Joe smacks them down they're pretty well tagged, though Carnera did get up three times after being spilled.

Because of his tremendous size and height, it was not possible for Joe to smack with everything behind it.

Hitting up, he lost leverage, as was to be expected. The King fought Carnera and he fought and whipped Hans Birkie, the big fellow whom Joe knocked out in the final round. I thought that was to be the turning point in Joe's career. I was almost sure that his backers had over-matched a kid but that does not seem so now.

Levinsky in Splendid Shape for Short Cut Battle to Title

By Associated Press

Cleveland, Aug. 2—The future or lack of future of Walter Johnson as manager of the Cleveland Indians rested today on a conference which he will have over the weekend with Alva Bradley, president, and Billy Evans, general manager of the club.

Bradley declined to discuss the reported impending removal of Johnson.

Baseball fans and observers, however, completely masticated all rumors of what would happen to Johnson and who his successor would be, waited for the club's chieftains to hold the pow-wow with Johnson in Detroit to determine definitely what leadership the Indians are to follow for the remainder of the season.

Steve O'Neill, one of the present Indian coaches, is mentioned as the outstanding successor for Johnson's successor for the present season. He was a catcher for Cleveland in 1920, when the Tribe won its only World Series championship.

RACE WEEK OPENS AT MARBLEHEAD

RECORD ENTRY EXPECTED

By Ed Schriftgiesser

Race Week, the country's greatest yachting carnival, begins at Marblehead tomorrow.

Already holding the national record of having started 309 sailing craft in a single regatta last summer, Marblehead is looking forward to even greater numbers this year.

Increased fleets from Boston harbor, visiting Thirty Square Meter boats from Sweden and Buzzards Bay, an Eight-Meter sloop from Long Island Sound, and several star boats from Narragansett Bay and perhaps Nantucket Sound will join with the North Shore's own squadrons to swell the racing assembly.

Today long lines of racing sloops and catboats, in tow of powerful power craft, began to appear outside Marblehead Rock bound for the harbor and eight days of concentrated racing.

More will arrive tomorrow before the first gun is fired, and additional late-comers should bring the fleet to its height early next week.

Racing actually begins tomorrow morning, when the little Brutal Beast catboats will be sailed by youngsters around harbor courses in order to get them out of the way before the larger craft set sail for the big afternoon races.

The Eastern Yacht Club will take charge of tomorrow's events and those of Monday and Tuesday.

Monday is the Boston Yacht Club's day, and Corinthian colors will fly for the rest of the week.

Sunday, while a day of rest for skippers and crews who race the rest of the week, will bring no relief to yachting judges and officials.

The Pleon Yacht Club has a junior regatta scheduled for sailors who are not old enough to vote, and cruising craft will hoist sail for Boston lightship on the annual ocean race of the Boston Yacht Club.

THE KING SHALL REIGN—MAYBE

Iroquois Invited to Boys' Camp

At the invitation of Mr. Taplan, superintendent of the Burroughs Newsboys' Foundation Chief War Eagle, Iroquois Indian will spend the weekend at the newsboys' summer camp in Maine.

He willingly agreed to show the boys the art of woodcraft, animal life, fishing, hunting, etc., as acquired by the Indians.

This is going to be a big treat for the hundred of more guests at the camp, and newsboys are awaiting his arrival with great expectancy.

Widen Lead

Detroit, Aug. 2 (US)—Taking an early lead, the Detroit Tigers conquered the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 3, increasing their lead in the pennant race to three and a half games over the idle Yanks.

The Browns threatened in the ninth, getting to Alvin Crowder for three runs, but Elon Hogsett, who replaced Crowder, struck out Ivy Burns with the bases loaded to end the rally.

Sox Beaten By Senators

Washington, Aug. 2 (US)—Pounding three opposition hurlers for 17 hits, including a home run by Buddy Myer, the Washington senators took the final game of a three-game series with the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 5.

The left-handed Earl Whitehill went the full distance for the winners, yielding nine hits.

A four-run rally in the seventh on a single by Manush, a walk to Bluege, a single by Kress, a double by Whitehill and a one-bagger by Kuhel, provided the winning margin.

Pirates Win

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2 (US)—Five hits which netted six runs in the second inning were sufficient to give the Pirates a 6 to 5 triumph over the second-place Chicago Cubs.

The six-run outburst was featured by Arkie Vaughan's home run with the bases loaded.

Cavalcade In 'Gansett Special

Narragansett Park, R. I., Aug. 2—"Don't let anyone whisper to you that the big boss won't go in the special," growled the deep bass voice of Bob Smith, trainer of Cavalcade, over long distance telephone to Walter E. O'Hara, Narragansett Park head, today.

"Cavalcade was out on the track here at Saratoga for a slow gallop yesterday," Smith's rumble continued.

"He went swinging fine and pulled up sound. That infected foot has completely healed, though I will go along slowly with him for a little while until the new hoof is fully grown."

The four-year-old son of Leonardo, champion of the 1934 three-year-old turf conqueror of Discovery every time the pair met, is one of the three horses named in the rich added conditions written by O'Hara for the special here on August 12.

If either Cavalcade or Discovery start against Omaha, monarch of the 1935 three-year-olds, O'Hara will increase the purse from $25,000 to $50,000.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

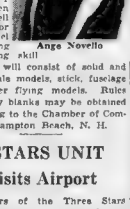
LAWRENCE SHAW NATIONAL DIRECTOR

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF THE YOUTH OF THE AMERICAS IN AVIATION

All Junior Birdmen and Birdwomen are invited to attend or compete in a model airplane contest to be held at Hampton Beach, N. H., on Saturday, August 24.

The event under the auspices of the Hampton Beach Chamber of Commerce Development Council, will be divided into two parts, by Herbert Weiss, of 492 Hampshire street, Lawrence, and Edward Lafranier of Haverhill.

Weiss is a popular and active member of the Junior Birdmen and is well known for his model building and flying skill.



Ange Novello

Events will consist of solid and detail scale models, stick, fuselage and glider flying models. Rules and entry blanks may be obtained by writing to the Chamber of Commerce, Hampton Beach, N. H.

3 STARS UNIT Visits Airport

Members of the Three Stars squadron, headed by Guido Novello of Somerville, had an interesting trip to the East Boston Airport where they inspected an Aeronca seaplane and a Douglas Dolphin Amphibian belonging to the Coast Guard service. A National Guard flyer was noted taking off on a searchlight mission on Cape Cod.

A course on avigation by dead reckoning was completed by Ugo Puglia and the commander is about to start his study of the same subject. Joseph Albertelli has just completed a Curtis air coupe model Ange Novello, 18, of Greenwood terrace, is the only girl member of this unit.

Activities of the Cloud Busters squadron of Roxbury, commanded by Leonard Wittenburg and captained by Melvin Lebovitz, have increased during the summer. Contests are held weekly and they now are about to own their own ship watch. The commander has obtained "pilot" rating in his unit by building a glider and flying it for 30 and 4-10 seconds. Recently Raymond Symkus gave a talk at a squad meeting on the history of parachutes.

Stanley Staples and William Farrow were admitted to the Sky Devils squadron of Somerville in time to take part in a unit trip to the East Boston Airport.

Note: This is how you can join the fun and form a squadron: Obtain the names, ages and addresses of four friends, in addition to your own. Enclose a list of these with 25 cents to cover cost of official charter, officers' bars, book of rules and regulations, description of honor banner system, etc., and mail to Junior Birdmen, 100 Summer street, Boston. You will be mailed the beautiful seven-color Junior Birdmen Flight Squadron Charter, inscribed with the names of your members and your squadron number. Commander and captain bars will also be sent to be worn attached to the regular wing pins by your elected officers.

New Film Time Forecaster On Air Waves

By N. F. T.

It usually take a time to take to catch favor, not only with loud-speaker patrons, but likewise with maestros who control the "mike" mills where melodies are given the vocal and instrumental works. In due time they win a way and come to the point of coast-to-coast popularity.

However, a brand new one labeled "Page Miss Glory" is going across at a cracking clip. Baton benders are putting it in programs pronto after a first playing in rehearsals.

This particular piece is the featured song to be heard when the new screen production "Page Miss Glory" adorns picture houses and screens of the nation very soon. Film and theme song, named alike as they are, provide the bright star Marion Davies with her latest professional vehicle. Dick Powell, the "Hollywood Hotel" program master of ceremonies and singer, will lend his voice to the tune tonight (WNAC) between 9 and 10 o'clock.

ODD OBSERVATION

Maybe it's a coincidence, as the fellow said when his pick of the paying ponies happened to head the others at the finish, but just yesterday the trend for teaming up people with identical names was mentioned through this set apart space. Today we find two Francises co-starred.

Last night it was the Taylors, Laurette and Deems. This evening come Frances Dee and Francis Lederer, the actor folk, although spelled with one letter difference, start in a condensed version of "The Gay Deception" as adapted for the air. Also a "Hollywood Hotel" hour hichlicht. Praise be there's only one McNamee in the radio realm. Not another Graham in the game either.

Light comedy called "The Genius of Broadway," will be the "First Nighter" offering tonight (WEEI) at 10.00 p. m. Anne Seymour, replacing June Meredith as leading lady during Miss Meredith's vacation, will play opposite Don Ameche.

Then there's "No Place to Go" as the title of the "Court of Human Relations" broadcast (WAAB) this evening from 8.30 to 9.00 p. m. It's a story of family sacrifices and will be enacted by a selected group of well-known dramatic artists.

FAITHFUL FAN

Jessica Dragonette, off-formed [illegible] sweetheart of the air, has received as a unique gift from a fan this week, a pillow upon which is stitched every song Miss Dragonette has presented over her Friday night semi-classic concert program for the last five years.

most recently, which are destined to kill off the spoken stage. Particularly unproductive of fearsome tremors in the mental division of this department has been the prediction that capital will recede from the theater.

The common news that hits have made a million dollars takes care of that. It required a trip to Lake Nabnassett, where the Lake Shore Players hold forth in a beautiful production plant with saddle horses, tennis courts, badminton courts, sandy beaches, fishing and an 18-hole golf course available between business hours, to allay any fears about the interest of young America in a stage career.

Young America is interested definitely. I saw 27 of its representatives enacting "Uncle Tom's Cabin" (with sound effects) throughout one of the most humid evenings of the season, and several hundred paying guests sat through the occasion in my non-speaking company. Those enthusiastic 27 are apostlyes at the shrine of Thespis.

Being in the main the offspring of wealthy citizens of London, San Francisco, Chicago and some your own city, these youngsters might choose a variety of vacations.

With the suspicion that the allures of Westford and a really beautiful surrounding landscape might have inspired these young neophytes in the drama to wheedle the wherewithal from their parents, I talked with several.

No, it was not the saddle horses. They have those on every hand, almost every place. Nor was it the sandy beaches, nor the tennis courts, which are equally findable in the far reaches of this here, our country. I thought the personable director of the Lake Nabnassett colony, Franklin Trask, might have cast the spell. No. Several of his acting company had not met him until arrival. Those kids wish to be actors, directors, authors, scenic designers, for the theater.

I say when a stratum of our population—an upper stratum decidedly—is stage-struck, it will be a mistake to sell your theater to the bond-holders. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the bad play it has been since the turn of the century. It was acted with gusto (there is a horse by that name but please do not hunch yourself into a wager). It was acted with intelligence, and I have a list of the 27 youngsters who played it which I am going to keep against the day when several among them are going to be stars.

Andrew W. Smith, Jr., vice-president of Warner Bros., is in town. Uncle Tom Spry, who has discarded his elephant-gray study in suiting, for a shade of O'Mahoney Green in tribute to Danno's victory and the new Warner picture entitled "The Irish In Us," which James Cagney and Pat O'Brien will imprest, is squiring Mr. Smith around town.

He should. Because Mr. Smith is one of the youngest vice-presidents of any major picture company and is a former newspaperman, and Uncle Tom likes both newspapermen and vice-presidents. Mr. Smith has a boyish smile, curly hair, a good tailor and a swell brain.

There will be more about him in this space tomorrow or soon. The press department of Warner Bros. keeps this department informed to the minute about the doings on the Warner lot. But Mr. Smith should talk about himself a little, and let his publicity department tell about the company's product.

That will be about the only objection raised against Mr. Smith, and if modesty is a fault, I found much in its favor in the person of Mr. Spry's charming guest.

Vote

The first day's results of the voting contest at the Rialto, where patrons may record their opinion of the Hecht-MacArthur film, "Once in a Blue Moon," were posted last night.

The film, which closes tomorrow, registered 873 patrons who regarded the fantastic picture as "the best" film of the season, while 621 emphatically marked their crosses opposite the qualification, "world's worst picture."

Los Angeles, Aug. 2—The most exciting studio in Hollywood is Fox Hills where the new regime, under the leadership of Joseph Schenck and Darryl Zanuck, is making plans.

Stars who were high in the firmament before the merger of Fox and 20th Century wonder just how they stand. Most of them have nothing to worry about because they are box office yet it is always comforting to be told all is well.

Warner Baxter, who has been with Fox for years, is one who was assured that plans are being made for his future. His first will be "King of Burlesque," based on "The Day Never Came," by Vina Delmar. Gene Markey has been commissioned to write the dialogue and it will be Baxter's first as a 20th Century-Fox star.

"Big Brown Eyes" sounds very intriguing, even though Joan Bennett's eyes are as blue as can be. That's the title of her next picture for Walter Wanger, to go into production in September. She plays with that title, of all things, a newspaper reporter.

Young Carl Laemmle, Jr., has not been in a discovering mood for a long time, but he now has a new protege whom he is about to introduce to the motion picture going public. Her name is Jocelyn Birse and she is 18 years old. Junior saw her playing a bit in an English picture and immediately sent for her to come to Hollywood. She has an interesting background, having been born in Russia of Scotch and English parents.

Chatter in Hollywood: Persistence thy name is woman! Here's a girl who traveled 28,000 miles just to be near the object of her affections. Let me tell you the story. Betty Ann Hill saw John Wood, who plays Flavius in "Last Days of Pompeii," in a picture in Australia. He looked good to her so she wrote him a letter and he answered.

She went to London to see him. She then went back home and decided Paint heart never won fair gentleman and returned to London to find John had come to America. She followed him to Hollywood and—well—she has won out and it's a real romance.

Pat O'Brien, who has been having one grand vacation, is hurrying back to town via the air. He gets here any moment, brought back by a wire from Mervyn Le Roy asking him to play the lead in "Radio Jamboree of 1935."

The very first picture Ann Sothern made when she came to Hollywood unknown was with Edmund Lowe. Her very next one will be "Grand Exit" with Edna Lowe as the chief male interest. Ann was officially informed today that she is to get ready to play in "Grand Exit" immediately and forget "Moonlight on the River," until Harry Richman can return later in the month for that movie.

New Film Fare On Two Screens

By JOYCE DANA

With Hollywood's fall crop almost ready for the harvest, we still have summer cinema fare at the Paramount and Fenway, where "Smart Girl" and "Silk Hat Kid" opened yesterday.

Reformation and romance go hand in hand in Silk Hat Kid. Lew Ayres, toughened up a bit but with the same breezy manner, comes to New York with a purse under his arm and assets that are somewhat less than the average man's dividend.

He plans to [illegible] Barbara Cavanagh but a couple of big, cop and nice men want to cut in and are quite willing to spend their way in to prove it.

Your probably suspected that a sweet little girl romance along and chance, Lew's mind. She happens to be Mae Clarke and Paula's heart interest, too, and as the guiding light for a couple of boys who are traveling too close to crime to be comfortable. Mae has her work cut out for her, but between times she finds [illegible] Lew's attempts at the [illegible] are not to be sneezed at. Lew's small boss will be known about the movie art of self defense. His automatic is Brother Lee's desk drawer but even if power are adamant he's a girl friend's by his side.

Then Mr. Kelly gets jealous indeed he is on cut up about some body muscling in on his lady friend that he decides to [illegible] draw his support from the settlement house and go into gambling.

The [illegible] transformation thrusts little Billy Lee, a motherless youngster, who Mr. Kelly discovers in his own room into an atmosphere of roulette wheels and loaded dice. There are pretty dismal scenes in the pent-inspiring Brother Lee passes the two to fish [illegible] in.

Nothing much can be done by the four principals even with William Harrigan's half-[illegible] presence as Brother Joe to help out "Silk Hat Kid." The best scenes are in the settlement house gym and in Public School 324 where the [illegible] of small boys seemed to be having a grand time. You'll have to stretch a couple of points to find [illegible] of it even if it's [illegible]

Mary Hides Heart Wound

SYNOPSIS

Mary Shannon had been pampered all her life. She would have gone on that way had not the sight of her father's worn collar awakened Mary to her selfishness with the result that she left college and obtained work in the San Francisco office of the A. A. Healey Steamship Company.

Mary is in love with the socially prominent James (Jimmie) Todd, Jr. Although he never said he loved her, he implied that someday they would marry. Mary's superior, Stephen Renner, notifies her that he is to be transferred to Seattle as manager of the home office.

He wants Mary to go along as his secretary but she cannot bear the thought of leaving her family. That night, Aunt Willie stuns Mary with the news of "Jamie's" engagement to Nesta Grainger. Mary recalls her meeting with "Jamie" two years ago.

She had been invited on a picnic by Jean Harvey, whose parents moved to Piedmont after making money in stocks but who still kept up their friendship with the Shannons through family calls. Mary cannot believe that "Jamie" no longer loves her.

CHAPTER V.

Way back in her childhood she seemed to remember Aunt Willie, who had been pretty then, in a plump, dark way, carrying on about someone who got married. And Ma telling Pa—"Why, he just took her out once, and came here once. How can she THINK he had serious intentions?"

Maybe she was just another Aunt Willie, imagining that because a boy says a few things, and kisses you a few times . . .

But they WERE good friends. Couldn't she have been told, even if he didn't love her, and never had? Why must she be the last one to know—to have to get it from an old newspaper, when Jean Harvey knew, and everyone else, and probably everybody saying, "Poor Mary"—

Ma had been a little uppety about family confab before she got off. She had worn the pink linen dress that she always liked better than any dress she ever had, and it was still damp around the armholes and neck, because Ma ironed it while she was dressing.

She couldn't have imagined that. Why was she asked to all the Harveys' parties and rushed, with Jean, for three semesters when she entered college, if it wasn't on account of Jamie?

Why, they wouldn't have looked at her twice—Mary Shannon, who lived practically next door to a chain store on Twenty-second street; Mary Shannon, whose father rode around in a lop-sided old coupe he'd painted himself, selling cutlery to second-class stores.

Hot tears squeezed through her tight-shut lids again, rolled rapidly down her cheeks, wetting the pillow.

He'd cared and he'd got tired and quit caring. And now it was over and he was going to marry someone else.

Yearns for Jamie

get over it. Nobody'd get the chance to be sorry for her. The time would come when he'd wish his Vesta Grainger had never been born, when he'd want her (Mary) back more than anything in the world, and she wouldn't have him—not for a million dollars. She'd have somebody better than him then. She'd show him, she'd.

Tears rained down her damp, hot face. She tasted their bitterness with mournful surprise. Rain beat on the roof, slanted against the upper panes of the half-open window, the palm leaves lashed against the side of the house, her cretonne curtains blew out into the wet. But she didn't care. She didn't care about anything but Jamie . . .

She didn't want to show him. She didn't want anyone better. She didn't want to forget him. . . All she wanted, all she'd ever want, was Jamie. And he was gone.

Unless . . .

She sat up, blew her nose. There must be a reason why he had stayed away from her. Afraid. He knew that if he saw her again. . .

If she wrote, found some excuse to see him again . . .

When your head aches, when your eyes are heavy with the tears you've shed in the night, when your heart is broken, and you wish you could sleep on and on into forgetfulness, it doesn't matter...you have to get up just the same when you have a job, and are a commuter.

Though the only boy is miles away, and you care less than nothing what others think of you, you have to dress carefully just the same, because office girls must be smart, and neat.

So Mary Shannon put on a clean blouse, and brushed her blue suit, and carried her black fox fur instead of the old tweed top coat, because the rain had stopped, and caught the 8 o'clock train this morning as she had all the other mornings, before her heart was broken.

And the sun came out, and the day was so warm and bright that Ethelyn Piper wanted to sit out on the bark deck of the boat.

Mary, who was cold in spite of the sun and half sick from forcing herself to eat a breakfast she didn't want, just to stop Ma from arguing, would have preferred to slump over her book in a corner of the cabin inside.

Hurt Silence

But it was easier to give in, and after a few moments the fresh, salt air made her feel a little better, though the bright blue sky, and the bright green water, and the glare of the sun on the deck, hurt her swollen eyes.

She had felt self-conscious about her looks. Was sure that anyone who took one look at her could see she had been crying a lot. But people don't notice. They aren't interested in you. They don't care.

Ethelyn said, "You look cute today. Have you got your hair different? I wish mine would curl up that way on the ends. Would you let it get longer, and have a permanent, just on the ends, if you were me?"

Look cute. With your eyes like two burnt holes in a blanket . . . "I don't know, Ethelyn. Your hair looks all right to me, the way it is."

"Oh, do you really think so? I just don't want to look mannish, that's all. The chief abominates mannish looking women. I don't dare get one of these new tailored suits, though I'm really the tailored type. But when he has a horror about looking mannish, why I'm safer to get—"

Ethelyn, off on her eternal "the chief says, the boss thinks, Mr. Alexander believes—"

"I'd see myself dressing to suit MY boss."

Hurt silence from Ethelyn. Shouldn't have said that, Ethelyn was crazy about Alexander, though a lot of good it would do her.

"Alexander has wonderful taste, though. He may be right at that."

Ethelyn came to again. "Wonderful taste! My dear, the way that man thinks of DETAILS! Did you happen to notice the necktie and shirt harmony he had yesterday? That deep hint of the tie just bringing out the blue of the—"

I must do something definite today, Mary thought. Anything will be better than waiting. I'll write—I wish I'd gotten up and written it last night. No, I CAN'T write—I won't let him think I'm jilted. Yes—and lose him, because I haven't gumption enough to finish—. . . The right kind of letter—. . .

All Worn Out

Bennet was on a rampage. Report after report. He was there, ready to start dictating, when she arrived at 10 minutes to 9. Wires came. Shippers telephoned. She'd have to sit there, staring into space, wasting time, while he talked.

They all seemed sorry that he was going. Mary began to be sorry, too. He wasn't so bad, really. Samson, coming to take his place, would probably be worse.

But she was still plugging away at 2 o'clock, though she'd only taken a half-hour for lunch, and hadn't had a minute to herself so far.

And at three he came in again, and asked her if she would mind staying until 6 or 7, to get everything finished.

Mind? That's all they know or care about you! But you can't refuse. Ma was put out about it, too, when she telephoned to her.

"Then you won't be home in time for dinner?"

Ma, I just SAID I couldn't leave until 6 or 7! How could I possibly—"

"Then get a bowl of soup on the boat, and I'll have your dinner hot in the oven—"

"No, I'll go out for a few minutes and get something. Don't keep anything for me."

"I'd much rather. It's no trouble, Babe, and—"

By the time she'd had it out with Ma and made it clear she WOULDN'T be home to dinner, she was all worn out.

Autumn Colors

Woolen sports frocks for fall, highlight green as the most popular color, with rich rust and pottery tones, wine, purple and Renaissance blue following close behind.

Olive green is the name of a new soft color on the olive side, and Renaissance blue is a color borrowed directly from the vibrant blues of Renaissance paintings. It is shown in both fall frocks and millinery.

A Hint of Pre-War Fashion Influence

By ANNICE BRINK

IT'S NO MORE than the memory of pre-war excitement fizzing in the air and newspapers, and yet, the 1912 touch in these two fall frocks is subtly and intriguingly there—the tunic flaring below the hip-line, the squarish jacket with its big, flat revers and hitched-up sleeve fullness—and it is old enough now to be amusing and new! Left, old gold figures cover closely the satin tunic, buttoned down the front as the newest tunic should be. The black satin skirt is tight in effect, though back pleats give walking room. It has loose elbow sleeves and a tie collar. Right, checked taffeta, black and silver, in a two-piece suit with a sheer lingerie blouse. Try a pert pillbox hat with it! Both frocks are between ten and twelve dollars. For shopping information, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

ON Learning BRIDGE Habits

By MRS. CULBERTSON

The skillful declarer takes advantage of deep-seated Bridge habits which are common to good players and poor players alike.

One of the oldest habits is to play third hand high to prevent a card played by dummy from winning the trick.

The declarer in the hand below was sure his opponents had this habit and thus was able to choose a line of play which netted him an extra trick and a top score in a duplicate game.

East, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♡ (1)	Double (2)
Pass	2 ♣ (3)	Pass	3 ♣ (4)
Pass	3 N. T. (5)	Pass	4 ♣ (6)
Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) A sound opening bid because of the major suit strength.

(2) North also shades the requirements for a takeout double instead of the three honor-tricks usually required, he has only 2½ pips. The deficiency is more than made up for by his strong spade support.

(3) South knows that he should probably pass the takeout double for penalties and get a two-trick set, but he also sees better than an even chance for game in spades.

As it happens, one heart could have been defeated as many as three tricks with perfect defense, but the defense would have been difficult.

(4) North shows spade support.

(5) South now shows his heart strength.

(6) North prefers spades because of his unbalanced distribution.

West opened a diamond, hoping to discourage an immediate finesse, but South played dummy's Queen and won the trick. Then the Queen of spades was led and the finesse lost to West's King. West laid down the Ace of hearts, then led the deuce of spades.

At this point South had a close question; for if he could discard three of dummy's clubs on his hearts, he could avoid a club finesse.

But if East had the third trump he could ruff the last round of hearts, in which case he would have been better to risk the finesse in clubs. South solved the difficulty by playing the seven of spades from dummy.

He was confident that if East had the eight he would cover the seven from force of habit. When East played low on the seven of spades, South assumed West must have the eight.

South therefore cashed the Ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond. Then he discarded dummy's three clubs, cashed the Ace of clubs and ruffed the third hand to make five-odd.

No one else made more than four, since the other declarers took the club finesse.

Proper Position of Table Silver

By MRS. BEECKMAN

POSITION OF TABLE SILVER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—How should the butter spreader be placed on the bread and butter plate when the spreader is not in use?

2—Is it permissible to cut lettuce with a knife?

3—How should a dinner knife be held?

4—Is it correct to crumble crackers in soup?

5—Where does one put the soup spoon when one has finished eating the soup?

DOROTHY.

1—As we set our table, we place the butter spreader on the bread and butter plate, either parallel with the silver on the sides of the plate, or parallel with the edge of the table.

It should not be placed in a diagonal line, as we set the table, but it may be placed, conveniently, in a diagonal line on the bread and butter plate after we have used the knife.

2—Yes. Salad knives are becoming increasingly popular, and are, and always have been, correct.

Either the salad knife or any other knife of convenient size is proper and convenient to use for the cutting of lettuce or any other salad ingredient.

3—The knife is held in the right hand as the fork is held in the left hand—firmly, and at the end of the handle, with the index finger pointing down the back of the handle.

4—No.

5—If the soup is served in a soup plate, the spoon is left in the plate after we have finished eating the soup.

If the soup is served in a bouillon or cream-soup cup, the spoon is placed on the plate that is served under the soup cup.

ADVICE on LOVE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX and NELL BRINKLEY

Which Is Worse, to Steal a Husband Or Fiance?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

AS FAR as other women's husbands are concerned, it seems to be less of a "hands-off" policy than it does in the case of engagements.

Girls who take pride in a decent sense of sportsmanship respect each other's rights as to engaged men. Queer that they do not show the same integrity in regard to married men.

Many more letters come to this column regarding the cribbing of other women's husbands than about the same high-handed vamping of fiances. Mrs. X.'s letter is fairly typical:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

"Why is it that my good-looking, fairly well-to-do husband seems to be fair game for every woman who crosses his path? This was not true when we were engaged. Then girls seemed to respect the rights of an engaged girl more than they now do those of a married woman.

OLD PLAY-GIRLS

"Husband-robbers naturally are older than the friends and acquaintances of an engaged girl. Is it that women become more disillusioned and have fewer ideals, as time goes on? Or is it because the ennui arises about the folly and vanity of married men bristle with truth and wisdom? And if you scratch a husband you will find a 'sugar-daddy'? At least, that has been my experience.

"And friends—likewise enemies—who would hesitate to go with my husband for a week-end holiday, do not hesitate to meet him downtown for lunch or to dine and dance with him at some open air restaurant any evening.

"Sometimes I've thought of hiring a gigolo and doing a little dining, lunching and dancing on my own account. But all those tactics seem so tawdry to a decent married woman of 36, who is trying to bring up four children to be creditable and useful citizens. "QUESTIONING."

It's a sordid commentary on human nature, but some women, as they grow older, lose their ideals of sense of sportsmanship, as the modern term is, and grab at anything—other women's husbands, profits of any sort, anything in the way of advantages. But please remember, dear lady, that if these husbands were not as simple as Mary's little lamb, they wouldn't follow vamps with the docility of a very young sheep.

DELICACY

My own feeling is that a woman of honor and delicacy carries loyalty pretty far. She not only does not want to take advantage of the "ready-for-adoption" attitude of a good many husbands, but she does not care about having the charge of cribbing a girl friend's fiance laid at her door.

As for hiring a gigolo, it seems to me that a woman who sees things as clearly as my correspondent would become profoundly disgusted with her hired partner before the arrangement had fairly begun. A better plan would be to wait for the lucid interval which comes at times to the roving husband. And the lucid interval does come when he asks himself what price these easy conquests?

TROUBLES OF LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We're both 16 and each of us makes a little money by working after school in the same office. Every penny of his money is needed at home. He never makes a date with anyone, and seems sad most of the time. I go out with lots of boys, but I never enjoy these dates as much as if I had been with the boy I love.

Would you suggest that I show him in different ways how much I care? Or what would you think of my asking him to go on a date with me and I pay the expenses? This boy never looks at me, does not seem to know I'm alive, and is unhappy, because theyre so poor at home and he can't go to college. CORINNE.

Have you ever thought of this side of the case? Perhaps by showing this boy you're interested in him to the extent of taking him out on a date, you may be adding emotional troubles to those he already has.

If you just wanted to be a good pal to him, the arrangement would be fine, because boys are happier when they enjoy good wholesome friendships with girls. But if you introduce a love element into the life of a boy who seems to have the troubles of a grown man on his hands, it is certainly questionable what effect it might have on his happiness.

'All a Mistake!"

By Nell Brinkley

THE ROMANCE reporter sat in at a session of the Court of Domestic Relations. And when he came back he put his feet high and his head low—to wit, on a desk and on his chairback, sighed dreamily and told me I'd "BE SURPRISED!"

I'd be surprised to see the number of cracked hearts mended. To see tragedy, stark as only these tragedies can be between men and women who love, or have loved one another, turned rude and away, and trouble buried. To see one gentle, understanding judge succeed where Cupid, after doing his very best and blunting a score of arrows, had given up and turned his face to the wall and hidden his eyes. To see how wonderfully it works when a man and a woman, bursting with accumulated, and often unspoken, grievances against each other, can frankly and secretly, and yet TO EACH OTHER, for the first time perhaps, tell to a third person just what is the matter!

To see a judge be St. George to the Dragon of Jealousy where Cupid had been vanquished.

Follow the ROMANCE REPORTER and you will find LOVE, and its loveliness and comedy, beauty and tragedy in many unexpected places.

How to Acquire a Slender Waistline

By JULIET SHELBY

IF THE weight you have been gaining lately has all gone to the wrong spot, don't go on a diet. It won't do any good.

You've either got to give yourself over to a masseuse who will pummel and pound you, or else work off the fat yourself by exercise.

Take, for instance, the case of lovely Sally Eilers. Not so long ago Sally had to decide whether she would have a baby and take the chance every woman takes of ruining her figure, or not have a baby.

She decided not to forego the joy of motherhood, and today her own baby is even more important to her than her screen career. And I am happy to say that the result is Sally is as slim and beautiful today as she was before she became a mother—and her career has not been halted.

Although, a mother, Sally looks like a girl of sixteen. Her slim, trim figure is her reward for persistent daily exercising.

If any woman will consistently do the same two exercises that I do she won't have to worry about her waistline. Her stomach will keep a flat as flat." Sally told me.

If you, too, want to be proud of your figure and acquire a fat waistline, follow Sally's advice.

To obtain Sally Eilers' illustrated exercises to keep the stomach flat, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Shelby, Boston Evening American, Boston.

"Terror in the Air"

He Trusted Life in Hands of a 16-Year-Old —and Had Trouble Getting It Back

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO, EVERYBODY!

Now, here, boys and girls, is a coincidence. I've got a letter here from Lewis Gordon of 2505 Mermaid avenue, New York city. The point is that just a few weeks after Lew's letter came romping in to my workshop, the same doggone adventure happened all over again. A certain young lady, well known in aviation circles, got in exactly the same spot Lew found himself in—and what's more, she did precisely the same thing Lew did to get herself out of her jam.

I'm not going to tell you what happened to that aviator lady. That would spoil the story. But I am going to tell you what happened to Lew, eight years earlier, and that amounts to the same thing anyway.

Lew is a test pilot for an airplane factory now, but until a couple of years ago he made his living touring, doing stunt-flying and taking up people who wanted to go for short rides. Lew stormed just about every barn from Maine to California. But one day back in 1927, it began to look to Lew as though his barnstorming days—and all other days, too—were over.

It was early in August, and Lew was doing his stuff in a little town in Idaho. A circus had come to the town for a three weeks' stay, and since there was plenty of open space nearby to land and take off, Lew hung around, cleaning up a bit of dough from the crowds that came to see the show.

A lot of the circus hands flocked around between shows to see his plane, and there was one boy in particular—a lad about 16 and the son of a circus performer—who took a special interest in it. This lad did Lew quite a few favors, and one day Lew asked him if he wanted to go up for a spin.

The kid was in the plane before Lew got half through asking him. Lew climbed in, signalled his assistant to pull the chocks and they were off. The plane was an old two-seater Jenny, and Lew admits it wasn't much of a plane. You had to be sort of gentle with it in the air to keep it from falling apart, but Lew managed to make it go.

The old Jenny was a dual control job. That is, it had two sets of apparatus for handling it and could be operated from either front or rear cockpit. Lew was sitting in the front cockpit, the kid in the rear. And when they had been up a few minutes, Lew signaled the kid to take the stick and run her a while, figuring that if the kid got into trouble he could always take over and land the plane himself.

The kid—Jimmy—took the stick and had a big time juggling it. Then as the plane made some wild gyration he hadn't counted on, he got scared and froze the controls.

"Now, freezing the controls," Lew explains, "means grabbing the stick and holding it as far away from you as possible. That throws the ship into a tailspin. And into the spin we went—a spin I couldn't get out of because of young Jimmy's death grip on the stick. I took a look around at him and one glance at his staring eyes—his rigid body—told me what had happened. To try and wrench the stick away from him would be worse than useless, for I couldn't reach around enough to put up an effective struggle.

"The wind was whistling through the struts and I saw the earth below come speeding up toward me. Any minute I expected to see a wing fall off the old crate for the strain was terrific. I mentally pictured the crash that was coming, and mentally remarked to myself that after that crash there probably wouldn't be enough left for a decent burial. Then, suddenly, my mind was clear again. I knew what to do.

"It was tough on young Jimmy, but it had to be done. I reached down into the cockpit and got the fire extinguisher. Then, turning around, I brought it down on Jimmy's head. He went limp in an instant, and I promptly grabbed the joystick and began easing the ship out of her spin. I leveled her off a scant two hundred feet above the earth—and that's the last time I ever invited anybody to take the controls."

Tomorrow read "On the Operating Table," a thriller of blood transfusions.

COTTON MILLS

Future SEEN AS Cheerful

By Hugh E. Bradshaw

The cotton industry, be-set by myriad troubles, is given scant attention these days. We wonder if this is the right and proper attitude. Business and industrial barriers are seldom permanent affairs.

To begin, the fact the cotton industry declined to levels that the most incurable pessimist would have hesitated to forecast nine months ago. This decline, while depressing enough in itself, must have created an extremely strong and firm foundation on which a future recovery could be based. Prices have been already set at rock-bottom levels and inventories reduced to bare-cupboard proportions.

While the Supreme Court still faces a decision of decided importance, the status of the cotton processing tax recovery in the industry may be hesitating. This is natural, since elimination of the tax would call for a readjustment of prices. But right now, regardless of the ultimate decision on processing taxes, seems to mark the approximate low for the industry. The reason for further reductions is not understand, is still rather light. But mills are said to note a good deal more interest in new goods. This last is in itself a hopeful sign. It would seem foolhardy to short the industry on its past troubles.

Shorts: The sweep of anti-death sentence legislature in the House is more than cheering . . . Not in utility share owners alone . . . But to all conservatives . . . Speaking of power and light shares reminds us that companies operating in highly industrialized sections reflect somewhat steady buying . . . American Water Works is a newsmark . . . That the industry itself feels better is demonstrated by reports of inventory-equipment . . . This will help General Electric and Westinghouse in the second half . . . Seasonal sales of household equipment naturally lag.

The immediate stock market outlook is beclouded by recent behavior of the industrials. As far as this column is concerned, the large to small group were sold out and rails purchased. The latter we had expected to step ahead while industrials chained about in a distributive zone. The last is apparently happening here. Shares are not getting up as we like them to. From 40 to 50 per cent of 50 most active issues posted new late have been in the $8 or under class. Poor leadership. Important industrial issues lost from a full week in a two or three point zone.

Notebook: What we want to see is a quick push by industrials to the 128-130 area on the Dow Jones average . . . As the index of the same group climbs to 36-38 . . . A short run in points for the list . . . But enough of collecting good individual gains . . . We would then take rail profits and wait for a slide . . . If the slide comes first we will wait it out in anticipation of an even higher objective . . . Chief critical point right now is 130.50 on any hour or close by the 30 industrial index.

Playing With Crime

Another Supreme Court

IN THE war on crime in this country the G-Men are the shock troops.

THE MORALE OF THE FEDERAL PAROLE BOARD SUSTAINS THE MORALE OF THE G-MEN.

When the Parole Board becomes the tool of politicians it loosens the grip of every G-Man on his gun and tightens the grip of every criminal on his weapon.

The ousting of Dr. Amy N. Stannard from the Federal Parole Board to make room for Judge T. Webber Wilson, of Mississippi, is a vital blow at the efficiency of the Federal Parole Board.

Dr. Stannard was a non-political appointee and a thoroughly competent psychiatric expert.

Judge Wilson was appointed for no other reason than that he had to have a job in place of the one he had in the Virgin Islands from which he had been relieved because he was an opponent of the administration of Governor Pearson.

SENATOR PAT HARRISON practically ORDERED the Administration to appoint Judge Wilson on this important board in return for his support of certain Administration measures.

Senator Vandenberg says:

"But if he [Judge Wilson] was not good enough for the Virgin Islands, I do not know by what reason he is qualified for the Federal Parole Board."

Pardon and parole abuses are at the very root of our shameful lawlessness as a nation.

The Federal Parole Board should be as free from politics and purely political appointees as the Supreme Court of the United States.

THE FEDERAL PAROLE BOARD IS, INDEED, THE SUPREME COURT OF CRIME.

TO TAMPER WITH IT IS TO TAMPER WITH THE LIVES OF THE CITIZENS OF THE COUNTRY.

Vanishing Gasoline

Don't Worry

Professor K. F. Mather, director of the Harvard Summer School, sounds a warning.

He declares there's only enough petroleum in sight to last us, at the present rate of production, for sixteen more years.

Undoubtedly we should REASONABLY CONSERVE THE NATION'S NATURAL RESOURCES.

As Professor Mather says:

"Conservation is NOT hoarding. It is the wisest use of what we have for the greatest welfare of the greatest number."

When the petroleum fields are exhausted, we will have substitutes for the present motor fuel, but this is no excuse for wastefulness.

Vicious Dogs

And Letter Carriers

Postmaster Philip J. Gallagher of Woburn has acted properly in refusing to allow letter carriers to deliver mail at houses where there are known to be vicious dogs.

The postmaster's action followed a dog's biting his son, Thomas Gallagher.

We all like GOOD dogs.

And we can't be blamed for NOT liking those that snap or bite without due cause.

Certainly the mail men have hard enough work without being compelled to face dangerous hazards that are needless.

On the Running Board

Death "Guest Rider"

Massachusetts automobile authorities are properly sponsoring a campaign to stop riding on the running-boards of motor vehicles.

The death of a girl only last week, swept off a running-board, emphasizes the danger of such riding.

For YOUR OWN SAKE, assist the officials in stamping out this dangerous practice, all too common now the beach and inland resort season is around its height.

"Here Come the British"

Welcome Again

A popular song reminds us that:

"Here come the British!"

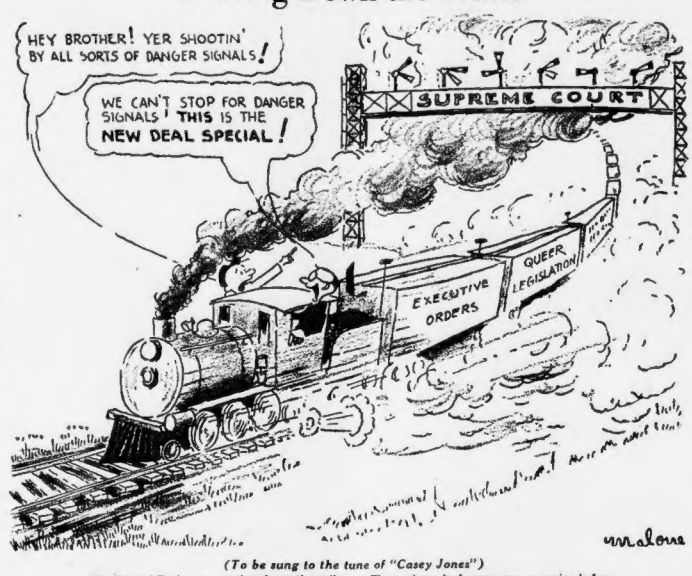
And the news columns say they'll be in Boston Harbor September 7, when Vice-Admiral Best, commanding the cruiser York, is scheduled to arrive.

It's Admiral Best's first visit to Boston, but numerous other British navy notables have been welcomed here, since the hostilities of 1776 and 1812.

So we will hope for another happy visit.

Dame Boston's a FINE HOSTESS.

Roaring Down the Track!



HEY BROTHER! YER SHOOTIN' BY ALL SORTS OF DANGER SIGNALS!
WE CAN'T STOP FOR DANGER SIGNALS! THIS IS THE NEW DEAL SPECIAL!
SUPREME COURT
QUEER LEGISLATION
EXECUTIVE ORDERS
malone

(To be sung to the tune of "Casey Jones")

The Special Train was roaring down the railroad track,
The semaphores were signalling to hold it back.
The engineer was deaf to all the fireman's moans—
He was headed for the Promised Land like Casey Jones.

The engineer had never run an engine before.
He couldn't tell a freight car from a semaphore,
He opened up the throttle and he yelled—
"Hey! Hey!
I don't know where I'm going but I'm on my way!"

A Story of Relics

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Edwin C. Hill

Beau Brummell's walking stick and the wedding dress of Elizabeth "Baby Doe" Tabor — one going to the Victoria and Albert Museum in London and the other to the Colorado state Historical Society.

It was a strange coincidence that the news should come on the same day, from St. Louis and Denver, of the disposition of the reminders of these glamorous personalities.

In their day George Bryan Brummell, Horace Tabor and Elizabeth Tabor flashed like meteors before their contemporaries, only to burn out and to become for the future abject examples of the fickleness of fortune.

HAPPY IN ASYLUM

Weeds overrun the grave in the cemetery at Caen, France, where lie the remains of the famous gallant of the Georgian era. He died there in 1840 with just enough sanity left to him to say to the nurses in the asylum:

"I have never been so happy in my life as while here."

Beau Brummell came of a prominent family and was born in London in 1778. He met the Prince of Wales, later George IV, while they were studying at Eton. As boon companion of the heir apparent in the drawing room and the clubs of London, Beau soon had a great reputation as a wit and as an arbiter of fashion.

He was a confirmed gambler, which proved disastrous to his tidy fortune, and he had a sharp tongue, which proved fatal to his friendship with the Prince. They quarreled—and the end was in sight for Beau.

He, however, always attributed his misfortune to the loss of his lucky piece, a six-penny bit with a hole in it which he gave by mistake to a chimney sweep.

BEAU'S WATERLOO

His Waterloo came after Waterloo and the return to London of the army officers, who gambled with a recklessness bred by war and which proved too much for Beau. On the 16th of May, 1816, he dined on cold fowl and a bottle of wine, went to the opera, took the coach to Dover and the boat to Calais, never again in his remaining twenty-four years to return to England. He had fled to escape prison for debt.

The Beau Brummell walking stick, which bobs up now, is a slender ivory cane, presented to him by George IV during the days of their friendship.

Colonel Wells H. Blodgett of St. Louis got it in London in 1894, and refused to sell or loan it to Richard Mansfield when the actor was creating his famous role of "Beau Brummell."

Its present owners, Henry W. Blodgett and Miss Edith Blodgett, presented it to the London museum after a five-year investigation had proved it an authentic relic.

FORTUNE FOR SONG

The auction in Denver of the Tabor trinkets included the brocaded silk dress which cost $7000 when Senator "Hoss" Tabor purchased it for Elizabeth McCourt Doe for their wedding in Washington before President Arthur.

All told, $700 was spent to buy up at this sale everything which was left of a fortune which ran close to $100,000,000.

The story of the Tabors has been told graphically in the films. It was told again last March when Baby Doe, an old woman, with a shot gun, died in the mountain shack where she kept guard over the Matchless mine.

The dying words of her husband had been, "Hold on to Matchless; never let it go."

"Horse" Tabor had come to Leadville by way of Vermont and Kansas. By grubstaking two miners he made his first strike with the Little Pittsburgh mine. The "slickers" went to work on Tabor.

They salted a mine and proceeded to sell him "the gold brick." He bought, started working the "worthless" mine, and it turned out to be the Matchless, which produced $10,000,000 worth of silver.

Tabor lost his fortune in 1893 and died in 1899. For 36 years his Baby Doe stood by the Matchless, and to her very last days would speak about him to the few reporters who would call on her, saying to the younger men:

"He was a fine man, a wonderful man. I wish you could have known Senator Tabor."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

New York, August 2—Thoughts while strolling: Ed Wynn's startled look is becoming permanent. What's become of George Lederer? Speaking of worries of the rich: Billy Leeds has 164 servants in his various establishments.

Look-alikes: Colette, the French novelist, and Nina Wilcox Putnam. They will go far to find a dealer pan than Joe Lewis's. Horror thought: To become suddenly lost in the catacombs.

They are talking how Clare Briggs' daughter Clare is showing her father's pen and ink talent.

Rarely read an Elsie Robinson essay without feeling a little glow. Or dialogue by Dorothy Parker without a murmuring: "Wish I had written that!"

A rock skipping game: Sleece Karkardish, Harper's Bazaar's new fiction editor, Beatrice Knudman, is reminding of the paintings of Catherine the Great.

The aristocrats on the cruller shop stools these days. Add artistic male hands: Walter Howey's, Rudy Vallee's and Milton Holden's. Rex Cole might be a second baseman in the Iowa League. And Sophie Tucker suggests a goose girl Gretchen goes Fifth Avenue Saks.

Frequent luncheon cronies: Bernard Gimbel and Gene Tunney. Few can touch off a Gainsborough hat like Mrs. Oliver Harriman. And no one can look so Southern Colonelish in a white crash suit as George Rector. But it takes Grover Whalen to make a silk hat sit up and purr.

A meander through East 15th street near the East River the other day revealed a sheep-fold, nine sad-eyed white sheep bleating. There was not a soul in sight, but finally a pipe-smoking wanderer with a dog came along.

I inquired to whom the sheep belonged. He removed his pipe and nodded toward an imposing building that was the Willard Parker Hospital. Experimentation? Anyway it rippled a shudder.

Ben Ali Haggin is living for the summer on the estate he inherited from his mother in the Adirondacks. He took with him his old butler who was his Jeeves in the grand days when Ben Ali Beau Brummeled through all the world capitals.

And whose studios were the haunts of famous beauties. While his butler was packing for him, he suddenly exclaimed: "What sir? The same fine linen underwear of the good old days. How they have stood the ravages of time, sir!"

The latest in dinner palaces is a restaurant gone classically literary. It is called The Dickens Room, with an heroic canvas of the author in the entrance and many other mementos of the era.

The announcement cards declare all lovers of Dickens will thrill to "the atmosphere." And the slogan is quite obviously: "Let's go to The Dickens."

George Buckley was standing by when an excited fellow rushed into the gun room of a Madison avenue sporting goods store and asked to see something efficient in shotguns. He was first shown one of imported English make, valued at $1500.

He declined with thanks. An inland German gun was next shown at $1200 and received a negative head-shake. A $900 Belgian make was brought forth. Finally said the stranger in annoyed blurt:

"Say, I asked merely for an efficient gun." Then grimly: "After all it's going to be a very simple ceremony."

One of the most interesting displays of Greatness was in Tom Mix's home in Beverly. The enormous living room was in de luxe cowboy decor with bossed saddles from Argentina and saddles from "down under," fretted with pearl and jangling hand-carved silver stirrups.

The walls were covered with fan-wise displays of guns, pistols and quirts. There was a bridle of Billy the Kid's. Adding to the wild and woolly motif was an indirect lighting effect suggesting a purple horizon in the sage brush.

Those who went for a few side chuckles left with gasps of admiration. The guns and saddles were valued at $125,000. The decorator was paid $19,000.

Listen, World

By Elsie Robinson

Elsie Robinson

Can You Make Up Your Mind?

How civilized are you? How grown-up? How reliable with yourself or the other fellow? How valuable a citizen? Four questions. You can answer all by one test.

WATCH YOURSELF WHEN YOU NEED TO MAKE A DECISION.

What's the most important thing in human life—beauty, strength, health, intelligence, charm? NO—THE GREATEST THING IN HUMAN LIFE IS OUR ABILITY TO MAKE CONSCIOUS CHOICES.

That ability is the thing which differentiates a man from a brute—the successful person from unsuccessful ones.

INITIAL LESSON

The first lesson one needs to learn in life, and the most important lesson one ever learns, is TO MAKE DECISIONS. Your success and happiness—and the happiness of everyone who is associated with you—depends upon that seemingly simple act.

Yet we are only beginning to realize that this function is serious and valuable.

Indeed, until recently it was considered actually wrong to allow a child to "make up its own mind." Implicit Obedience was rated as the primary domestic virtue. And it resulted in more maimed lives than all the childish ailments or accidents put together.

There is no spectacle more tragic than a human creature who cannot make decisions. Blindness, deafness, paralysis, the loss of arms or legs—these are slight handicaps in comparison with a flabby, flutt-ery brain that has never learned to choose for itself.

DEEPEST TRUTH

And there is no association more demoralized and dangerous than partnership with such a person.

The deepest truth in life is this—Life is what we make it; life is as we take it. And we make life through our decisions—we take life by our choices.

But suppose we can't make up our minds what to decide, what to choose? Then we are at the mercy of any outer pressure and are whirled hither and yon by and chance circumstance.

Someone once said — "TO STEER IS HEAVEN . . . TO DRIFT IS HELL." And how well you know it. Your most miserable moments have been spent in aimless vacillation.

"If I only had been born with a strong will power, like some people," you've sighed enviously.

But no one is born with Will—strong or otherwise Will is something that must be developed and trained—as strong muscle must be developed and trained.

An athlete starts with the soft, stringy fiber which is the making of muscle, and from this he develops the sinewy band which gives him power.

And, in exactly the same manner, a man starts with the ability to choose, wherein lies the making of Will. And by exercising that ability, he develops Will Power.

Will Power is simply the accumulated choice-power of your past decisions. If you haven't any past decisions, you haven't any Will Power.

LET OTHERS ALONE

And so it happens that a poor choice is better than none at all.

For even though you may suffer unhappy consequences from a poor choice, you have gained by the experience, for you have increased not only your wisdom but that which is far more precious, your ability to decide.

Never duck a decision. Never allow your self out of making one. No possible penalty for making a poor choice could be as disastrous as the punishment you inflict on yourself by not making any.

Make your own decisions even though you have to face a battle in order to do so, for your ability to decide is your first duty, most serious responsibility and most sacred obligation.

And let others make their own decisions. If you MUST wrong another human being, steal from him, lie about him, cheat him or betray him—BUT NEVER INTERFERE WITH HIS RIGHT AND DUTY OF MAKING HIS OWN CHOICES. You may gratify your own egotism by doing so—but you do irreparable damage to his immortal soul.

And that goes for EVERYONE—including, first of all, your own child.

War on 'Spirit of '76'

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

OVERTHROW of the government, of the Constitution without resort to force, is possible in only two ways under the American system.

Which of these ways will be chosen by the reds, pinks and yellows in the present Congress has not been decided, but their spokesmen will doubtless announce their preference before the end of the calendar year.

Article V of the Constitution provides for its amendment in these words:

"The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress . . ."

To junk the Constitution, as it is now written, and substitute an organic law modelled on that of Germany, Russia, Italy or some other European country, the radicals in Congress and their allies on the outside must finally obtain the legislative consent of three-fourths of the states of the Union.

This consent is necessary regardless of whether the initiative for Europeanizing our American system of government comes from the Congress or from the legislatures of two-thirds of the states.

In view of the fact that the reds, pinks and yellows who are organizing the latest sapping expedition against the American system are members of the present Congress, they will probably attempt to elect a new Congress pledged to their program.

When it comes to subverting the American Constitution and defending the Supreme Court as its independent interpreter, the American people have in the past adjourned partisan politics and voted simply as Americans. There is no reason to believe that they will do otherwise in the years just ahead.

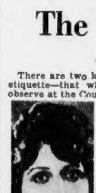
Evidently they are expected to follow this custom, because the sapping expedition in which the present Congress are enlisting is made up of members calling themselves Republicans as well as Democrats. They insist, however, that they are New Deal Democrats and New Deal Republicans.

It is a far cry from the New Deal of 1932 for which the people voted so overwhelmingly and the New Deal which the reds, pinks and yellows are now proclaiming as the issue of the Congressional elections of 1936.

The Marry-Go-Round

By Helen Rowland

There are two kinds of "court" etiquette—that which you must observe at the Court of St. James, and that which you SHOULD observe in the divorce court.



Helen Rowland

Manners have come back into fashion with pictures hats and fancy waistcoats, and you've got to know your Emily Post, whether you are sending out the wedding invitations or merely sparring for alimony.

A gentleman is known by his divorce manners—and a lady by her court-room etiquette, these days.

After all, why should a man be rude to a woman, simply because he has discovered that he no longer wants to pay her bills or let her burn his breakfast-toast?

And why should a woman lose her poise and call a man insulting names, just because she has found out that he is not her soul-mate—but another woman's?

There are lots of people in the world whom you may detest, but who you would not dream of socking in the eye no matter how passionately you may long to do so.

The politest divorces in the world are "made in America"—chiefly because American husbands are the most chivalrous in the world. In England, they take a little divorce very informally.

To them, divorce is not just a change of mood or a change of partners.

They wait until they hate each other and then get up in court and look daggers at each other and accuse each other of unquotable things. How crude!

But in America, when a husband and wife have determined to EX-it from matrimony, they make it almost a social ceremony.

Go out to dinner together, decide on the grounds and the lawyers, discuss the relative climates of Nevada, Dakota and Mexico—and then say good-night amicably and almost regretfully.

She packs his grips, puts in his cough medicine, finds his golf clubs and reminds him of his appointment with the dentist.

He straps her trunks, drives her to the station, tenderly arranges her luggage and sees to it that she and the Peke are made comfortable.

That's a POLITE divorce!

MODERN CHILD

By Edgar A. Guest

Well, who'd have thought it would come to this:
I've always fancied a little girl
Should be a dainty and winsome miss
With hair that never gets out of curl.
But here is Janet with eyes aflame
Insisting on seeing a baseball game
And wanting to sit by the left field wall
In the hope of grabbing a foul fly ball.

"Let's sit back of the screen," said I.
But she dropped her eyes and her face went glum
And this unto me was her strange reply:

I'd rather go out in the bleachers cheap
Where I may get a ball they will let me keep.

"And Smith says that he and his father sat
And they got a ball which his father caught
With his right hand bare and it stung him, too;
And Billy says if we sit there he thought
They come real fast in the left field stand
But if his dad can catch them with just one hand
And come back home with a baseball new
